MRS. EGEBERG IS ENERGETIC HEAD OF JUNIOR WOMEN'S CLUB

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

She finds time for her own children and play school

This is the third in a series of articles designed to introduce to readers of the Palo Alto Times the incoming presidents of the largest women's clubs of the city.

It's small wonder that members of the Junior Women's Club of Palo Alto show a particularly lively interest in projects which involve young children, such as the play school which they assisted the city adult education department in organizing. For most of the members—who must be under 35 years of age in order to join the group—have youngsters of their own.

And Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg was a logical choice as new president for the club, since in addition to the competent work she has done in the past on the organization's projects, she is enthusiastic about her job as wife and mother. The fact that she had her second baby only last June has not deterred her from taking on the responsibilities and duties that go with her president's gavel.

Mrs. Egeberg philosophically points out that right now Jimmy, who is 2, and the baby, Laura, are probably less work to care for than they will be in another year, and says that since everybody in the club has much the same home situation, none of the members feels overburdened by the extracurricular activities which the club introduces.

"There were 14 new babies in the club last year alone," she says, "with seven or eight of them actually due in the same month!" Mrs. Charles Nance's 10-year-old son is the oldest child in the group.

Because of the club's big program last year, the play school under Mrs. Wilbur Bolton's supervision, was such a success and grew so fast, the Junior Women's Club has now stepped out to make it independent, and the local group is seeking a new major project—preferably one dealing with children, of course.

MRS. LAWRENCE EGEBERG

At present, the club activities scheduled are on the lighter side—a barbecue planned for next Thursday, with Mrs. Paul Mezzapella as chairman, and a fashion show luncheon at Rickey's Studio Club set for an August date. Mrs. Raymond Schuhmann will be chairman of the junior fair in October, and later there will be a sale of cook books composed by tested recipes submitted by club members. Mrs. Robert Hill, Mrs. William Smith, and Mrs. Don Bolander will be in charge of the sale, all proceeds from which will go toward the organization's yet-to-be-chosen community service program for next year.

Before being elected to preside over the Junior Women's Club, Mrs. Egeberg was chairman of the youth conservation committee, under which the play school was begun. The committee also sponsored a series of lectures featuring George Sheviakov and Dr. Leonard Grindstaff. For the work it did during 1947, Mrs. Egeberg's committee received a certificate of outstanding achievement from the California Federation of Junior Women's Clubs.

Personal data

Personal data on the new president show that she is the former Jean Lane of San Francisco, that she was a comptometer operator and statistician from 1936 until 1945, and that she was married in March, 1940.

She and her husband postponed their wedding four months in order to build their Cape Cod style home on Woodland Ave.—and now are wishing they had made it larger. During the war, the family was a mobile one while Mr. Egeberg served in the navy, and they returned here only two years ago. Mrs. Egeberg joined the Junior Women's Club of Palo Alto in March, 1947.

JUNIOR CLUB PLANS EXHIBIT

Several sketches of house interiors in water colors by Mrs. Howard Gawthrop will be a feature of the exhibit of the work of members of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club, which will be on view at the Palo Alto Public Library beginning Monday in observation of National Art Week.

Mrs. Gawthrop studied interior decorating at the Pratt Institute in New York and later followed a career in this field.

Also in the exhibit will be portraits in oils by Mrs. Guy Wathen and Mrs. Harold Mohr; a still life in oils by Mrs. Edward Hyde, and water colors and pastels by Mrs. Mohr, Mrs. Wathen, Mrs. Don Alvord, Mrs. J. H. Gray, and Mrs. Jack Merrill.

Of special note will be the "husbands' corner" where water colors and cartoons by Mr. Mohr and Mr. Wathen will be on display.

Members of the junior club will assist the senior organization with the art exhibit next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday at the women's clubhouse.

Another activity of the junior group in the artistic field will be their sponsorship of a high school student as a member of the Palo Alto Art Club.

LOCAL JUNIOR WOMEN'S CLUBS REPRESENTED AT CONVENTION

The two local branches, the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club and the East Palo Alto Junior Women Club, were well represented today at the convention in San Francisco of the Junior Membership of the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. William Rushworth, former president of the Palo Alto Juniors, and current president in the San Francisco district, conducted the first district convention ever staged.

Committee chairmen for the meeting included Mrs. Lawrence Ebeberg, Mrs. Donald Alvord, and Mrs. Guy Wathen, all of Palo Alto. Mrs. Don Bolander, another localite, is district press chairman.

Representatives of the East Palo Alto Juniors at the day-long meeting were Mrs. Harold Heintz, Mrs. Frank Thommen, Mrs. Harry Anenson, Mrs. Vern Ireton, Mrs. Wilson Merriam, Mrs. George Thomas, Mrs. Arch Lang, Mrs. Harry Lancaster, Mrs. Edward Bennett, Mrs. Louis C. Bennett, and Mrs. Lawrence Totten.

Members of the Palo Alto group, who attended, in addition to the committee chairmen and Mrs. Bolander, were Mrs. J. H. Gray, Mrs. Howard Hackley, Mrs. Edward Hyde, Mrs. John Merrill, Mrs. Charles Nance, Mrs. Albert Roney, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Bernard Kahn, and Mrs. Frank Pfyl. Mrs. Clement Arnold, advisor to the junior group, was also present.

Conversation pieces

Often when illness strikes, a blood transfusion spells the difference between life and death—but THEN is no time to start wondering where to find a donor.

That is the lesson members of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club learned this summer—and because of their experience, a new project has been set up. At their last meeting, members registered for appointments at the Blook Bank at Mills Memorial Hospital where the junior club will establish a reserve of blood plasma to be saved for members and their families.

According to the plan, the reserve will be built for six months, and then, if it has not been tapped to too great an extent by members, the group will probably decide to donate some of the blood to needy cases.

"The Juniors," as these active, alert young women are called, learned their lesson in preparedness when Mrs. Council Hobbs, the mother of Mrs. Harold Mohr, a club member, was seriously ill about a month ago. Mrs. Mohr appealed to some of the club members for advice, never expecting the very tangible assistance that followed. Mrs. Guy Wathen, an active "junior," told her husband about the case. Mr. Wathen, who is an inspector in the local police department, along with Officer Richard Savage, promptly went to the hospital to donate blood.

Two club members, Mrs. Jack Merrill, and Mrs. Clyde Nance, followed suit, while both Mr. and Mrs. Mohr also made donations.

JR. WOMEN'S CLUB

Business meeting, bridge party are planned this week

Business and social meetings are on the program this week for the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club. To start off the new club year, members will meet Thursday at 7:45 at the women's clubhouse. The speaker will be Paul Speegle, radio columnist, whose talk will be in keeping with the club's project of the year—better radio programs for children.

On Friday, members will lunch at Rickey's Studio, where a fashion show luncheon will be presented. Proceeds from this event will go to the junior women's club. Later, the group will play bridge at the home of its president, Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg, 1103 Woodland Ave.

JR. WOMEN'S CLUB

Past presidents are honored at Thursday meet

Past presidents of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club were guests of honor at the group's meeting Thursday night at the senior women's clubhouse.

Mrs. Clement H. Arnold, adviser for the junior club from the senior organization, presented corsages to the following former presidents: Mrs. Ralph Galindau, Daly City; Mrs. Erma Reynolds, Menlo Park; Mrs. Leslie Sherwood, Mountain View; Mrs. Fred Glanville, Palo Alto; Mrs. Robert Hill, Menlo Park; Mrs. William Laverne Smith, Palo Alto, and Mrs. William Rushworth, Palo Alto.

A piano duet was presented by Mrs. Charles Nance and Mrs. Bert Roney with Mrs. Lawrence Egebert, club president, as narrator.

Mrs. Mel Adams was chairman of the evening's program, assisted by Mrs. James Carper, Mrs. Richard Beyer, and Mrs. Don Alvord.

A welcome was extended to Mrs. Joseph Garcia, who recently returned to her home in Menlo Park after a trip by clipper to the Azores.

Plans were made for the Junior Fair to be given Oct. 23 at the clubhouse. Mrs. Ray Schuhmann is chairman of this project.

TWO EXHIBITS ARE SCHEDULED TO MARK NATIONAL ART WEEK

Junior Women's Club sponsors event at library

Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will celebrate National Art Week with an exhibition of work by members in a number of mediums. The exhibition can be seen at the Palo Alto main library, starting Monday and will include portraits and interiors in oil, watercolor, pastel and pencil.

The work has been done privately and also in a class organized for the purpose of instructing those with only a little experience.

The local group entered the contest sponsored last year by the General Federation of Woman's Clubs.

FULL SCHEDULE OF PRE-CHRISTMAS EVENTS GETS UNDERWAY FOR JUNIOR WOMEN'S CLUB

There's a busy calendar in the offing for members of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club throughout the holiday and into the new year. Today the members made an art tour to the Peninsula School to see the exhibit of paintings and plastics by Emmy Lou Packard. Mrs. Harold Mohr, penny art chairman, had charge of the tour.

Thursday, Christmas festivities for the members and their guests will start with the annual Christmas dinner at Dinah's Shack and an exchange of gifts by members. Mrs. Frank Pfyl is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Howard Gawthrop and Mrs. Harvey Bailey.

Members will participate in a Christmas baby shower at that time with all gifts intended for the wardrobe department of the Stanford Mothers Club. These gifts will replenish and add to the supplies available for the new and prospective mothers of the Stanford Village. Mrs. Clement Arnold, juniors' adviser, has charge of the wardrobe section of the Stanford Mothers.

Also at the Christmas dinner, first copies of the cook book, "Our Favorite Recipes," which the juniors compiled and had printed will be seen. These books will be ready for sale by members in time for Christmas gifts and may be seen on display in Peninsula Refrigeration Co. windows. Mrs. Robert Hill is chairman in charge of the cook books and any further information desired may be obtained from her.

Next event for the juniors is the task of staffing a booth for tuberculosis seals at Joseph Magnin's, Dec. 13 through 18. Mrs. Harvey Bailey is chairman of this project.

The club will wind up its pre-Christmas program with the open house for husbands of members Dec. 19 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Smith.

FOOD FOR THAT BUFFET PARTY

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Junior Fair will be Saturday

Home-made food, specializing in buffet dishes for Saturday's parties before and after the football game, will be a feature of the Junior Fair that the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will give Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the senior women's clubhouse, 475 Homer Ave.

For early Christmas shoppers, there will be booths crammed with a variety of items, including hand-made aprons and baby clothes, dolls, and white elephants. There will also be game booths and hot dog and coffee stands.

Another attraction will be a caricaturist, who will turn out portraits on the spot.

An unusual quilt will be on display at the fair. Statistically speaking, it contains 10 square yards of material; 5,676 sexagon pieces, all hand cut; 178,044 stitches; 1,820 yards of thread, and represents 223 hours of actual working time.

Mrs. Ray Schuhmann and Mrs. Brown Taylor are co-chairmen of the fair. Booth chairmen will be: Mrs. Harold Emmerich, Mrs. James Carper, Mrs. Richard Beye, Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg, Mrs. Howard Gawthrop, Mrs. Harold Mohr, Mrs. Jack Gray, Mrs. Jack Merrill, Mrs. Howard Hackley, Mrs. Charles Nance, and Mrs. Guy Wathen.

JUNIOR WOMEN'S CLUB PLANS HOME FREEZE DEMONSTRATION; RADIO SHOW IS NEW PROJECT

Three new projects are claiming the attention of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club. On Oct. 7, the club will sponsor a demonstration and a color-sound film on home freezing at the women's clubhouse. The program will start at 8:30, following the board meeting of the club at 7:30.

There is no charge for admission, but tickets will be required. These are being distributed through the club members. Refreshments will be served.

The second project is sponsorship of a half-hour radio program of children's music over station KVSM from 5 to 5:50. Arrangements for it are in the hands of a committee headed by Mrs. Harold Emmerich of San Carlos. The starting date has not yet been set, and it is hoped that through endorsements of the plan by other Palo Alto clubs, it will be possible to secure a program sponsor.

Meanwhile, plans are going ahead for the junior fair the club will give Oct. 23 at the clubhouse.

FALL STYLE SHOW

Young peninsulans interrupt wedding and moving plans to take part in benefit fashion parade

Friday the 13th apparently holds no terrors for the group of young peninsulans who model at the fashion show luncheon at Rickey's Studio, for they are interrupting vacation activities, wedding plans, and party arrangements, not to mention moving, to model next Friday. Proceeds of this showing of early fall styles will go to the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club.

Back for a modeling stint after taking time out for the arrival of young Mary Teresa five months ago will be Mrs. John M. Roos, who will be hostess Aug. 14 with Mr. Roos at an informal cocktail party at their Atherton home.

Deep tans acquired in Southern California will be displayed by Mrs. Alfred Ducato and Mrs. T. Adam Musto, who have been vacationing at La Jolla and Coronado, respectively. The two peninsulans, incidentally, and their husbands got together during their stays in the southland for a week end in Mexico.

Another of the models will be Elaine McChrystal, who is deep in plans for her marriage next month to William A. Lange Jr., while for Mrs. Charles Freeborn, mannequin duties will be a respite from the chore of preparing to move into her new home in Atherton Heights.

Completing the model roster will be Mrs. Ernest Sultan Jr., Mrs. Thomas Schulte, Mrs. Antoine Bovet, Mrs. Winston Churchill Black, and Carol and Bobby Stever.

Carmencita Baker, one of the group's favorite models, who has scarcely missed a fashion show at Rickey's for the past year, will not be able to take part. She is preparing for an early departure to the East Coast with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Washington Baker Jr. They will be gone about six months.

Dear Lord, in this complex world grant that we may find the simple way of life.
Let us be done with pretention and seek ever to meet on the common grounds of truth.
May we not be indifferent to opportunities to serve our fellowmen, for we realize indeed that the greatest service to ourselves is to our fellowmen.
Let not self but selflessness be uppermost in our service.
Teach us, Oh Lord, to know kindness, to be gentle, tolerant and charitable.
Deliver us from the bondage of prejudice and hate and help us to thrust bitterness from us.
Let us know the joy of companionship based on unity of purpose and unity of action.
And, Oh Lord God, may we ever think more deeply, feel more deeply, live more deeply and draw nearer unto Thee day by day.

Palo Alto Fashion Show

Members of Palo Alto Juniors entertained over two hundred guests at a bridge fashion show at the senior clubhouse recently. Special styles were obtained from Hollywood by one of the local merchants and were clothes primarily designed for young clubwomen. In charge of the affair was Mrs. Jack Merrill. A silver compote was donated by a jewelry store for a door prize and flowers were also furnished with no cost to the juniors. Musical background was provided by phonograph from another merchant. In conjunction with the show, art chairman, Mrs. Harold Mohr assisted the senior penny art chairman with a display of paintings done by various members of the junior club. Pictured at left as they appeared as models are Mesdames Albert Roney, music chairman; Harvey Bailey, show chairman; Richard Bridges, decorations and Guy Wathen, publicity.

Mrs. Egeberg wins district post in junior woman's federation

Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg, president of the Palo Alto Junior Woman's Club last year, has been named first vice president of the San Francisco District, Federation of Women's Clubs Junior Membership.

Mrs. William Rushworth of Palo Alto is succeeded as president of the district by Mrs. Robert Serr of San Jose. The election was held at Dinah's Wednesday.

Other district officers named by the junior membership include: Mary Lou Currier of Santa Clara, second vice president; Mrs. Howard Hackley of Palo Alto, recording secretary.

The new officers were installed in a candlelight ceremony by Mrs. Clement H. Arnold of Palo Alto.

The Palo Alto junior club was awarded the federation's extension award for international participation and first award, class A for its press work. The East Palo Alto Junior Woman's Club received a first award, class B.

Guests for the installation were Mrs. J. Harold McFall, retiring president of the senior woman's club; Mrs. T. O. Dowdell, president-elect of the senior woman's club; Mrs. J. G. Marshall, vice president-elect, and Virginia Peterson — all of Palo Alto.

Mrs. Egeberg will represent San Francisco District on the state nominating committee at the convention in Long Beach, May 20 and 21, and will attend as the local delegate with Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, Mrs. Rushworth and Mrs. William L. Smith, retiring state penny arts director, will also attend the convention. Mrs. Fred Glanville and Mrs. Ray Schuhmann are alternate delegates.

Tomorrow the Palo Alto Juniors will entertain their husbands at the home of Mrs. Don Bolander.

The end of the club's fiscal year will be marked by the annual installation dinner at Dinah's, to be held May 26. Newly-elected officers will be installed by Mrs. Clement Arnold.

Chairman for the dinner is Mrs. Fred Glanville. She will be assisted by Mrs. Ray Ahlander and Mrs. Guy O. Wathen.

JUNIOR WOMEN PLAN BUSY MAY SCHEDULE

Family Service unit considered

Dr. Bertha Mason, president of the board of directors of the Family Service Association of Santa Clara County, and Robert S. Booth, executive secretary of the association, were guest speakers last night at a meeting of the executive board of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club.

The group met at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Engeberg, 1103 Woodland Ave.

Dr. Mason and Booth met with the board to present the basic outline for founding a family service group in Palo Alto.

At present the association functions in San Jose under Community Chest sponsorship.

Plans were completed for a rummage sale Friday at 9:30 a.m. at the Senior Woman's Club house. Mrs. Harvey Bailey is chairman.

The club will hold a business meeting and election of officers May 5, and members will also attend the district dinner of the junior membership of the San Francisco district May 11 at Dinah's. The East Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will be hostesses.

Delegates to the district dinner will be Mrs. Howard Hackley, Mrs. Ray Schulmann and Mrs. Guy Wathen.

Mrs. Don Bolander will be hostess at a social evening May 14. May 18 the junior club will serve luncheon for the Senior Woman's Club of Palo Alto founder's day.

Mrs. Lawrence Engeberg, Mrs. William L. Smith, Mrs. William Rushworth, and the president elected May 5 will be delegates to the California Federation of Women's Clubs Junior Membership opening May 19 at Long Beach.

The junior women will close their season with an installation dinner May 26 at Dinah's. Mrs. Fred Glanville is chairman for the affair.

Woman's Club art section plans activities for season's finale

Activities for the remainder of the spring season were announced at a meeting of the art section of the Woman's Club of Palo Alto Thursday.

Section members are planning a trip to San Francisco in April, with three goals in mind. They will visit the Lucien Lebeaut Gallery for a tea and private showing of the late artisit's works, with Madame Lebeaut as hostess. The day's schedule also includes a visit to the Legion of Honor gallery, and a luncheon at Cliff House.

The Thursday meeting featured a talk by Paul John-David La Plante, Stanford art instructor, who initiated a lively discussion with his talk on "Social Implications of Contemporary Art." He showed slides illustrating the history of art from the Byzantine period to the present.

Mrs. Clement Arnold presided at the tea table after the meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Albert W. Browne.

The annual garden party and luncheon, traditional finale to the arts section season, is scheduled for early May. Mrs. L. M. Cook, former section chairman, will be hostess. At that time members will offer their opinions of pictures studied during the year.

Later, members will visit the Pescadero Art Colony of Professor and Mrs. Marques E. Reitzel in San Jose, where they will be guests at a luncheon. Professor Reitzel is a member of the art faculty at San Jose State College.

The series of monthly exhibits the art section has initiated at the Palo Alto clubhouse is now featuring a selection of water color works by Mrs. Florence Wideman Hoffman. Recently ceramic pieces by Barbara Hutchinson were shown.

Paintings by four section members arranged by the Junior Woman's Club are also on view. The artists are Louise Mohr, Georgie Wathen, Hazel Hyde and Jean Slingluff. Mrs. Slingluff is the wife of the Times staff cartoonist.

Junior Women's Club

Members of the American home section of Palo Alto Junior Women's Club heard a talk Thursday night by Fred Henriques on fabrics and textiles in interior decorating.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ray Schuhmann and Mrs. Les Sherwood. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Schuhmann.

JR. WOMEN'S CLUB

Embassy aide tells of life in Belgium

An account of what women's clubs are doing in Belgium was heard at the Thursday night meeting of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club, which had Miss Dorothy Moore, cultural officer of the U.S. Embassy at Brussels, as guest speaker.

Miss Moore was the house-guest here of the club president, Mrs. Lawrence H. Egeberg. She left yesterday for Southern California, and expects to return in the spring to Brussels. Miss Moore, who is from Evanston, Ill., and Mrs. Egeberg met during the war when they were fellow passengers on a train in the East, and have kept up their friendship through correspondence.

The visitor told the club members about the function of her position at the embassy. She is available at all times as a speaker before women's groups, and is the top source of information on cultural aspects of life in this country. Prospective travelers and would-be students consult her on itineraries, specialized offerings of the various American colleges and universities, and the locations of art and music centers, she said.

At Thursday's meeting, plans were made for a number of junior club projects during the coming weeks. The juniors will have charge of the program at the Feb. 16 meeting of the senior club, Mrs. Egeberg announced. The major spring event on the junior calendar, the fashion show, will take place March 8.

It was also announced that the cook book, compiled by the club members, is now ready for sale.

Juniors elect Mrs. Jeschke club president

Mrs. Ralph Jeschke was elected president of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club at last night's club meeting. She succeeds Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg.

Elected to serve with Mrs. Jeschke were Mrs. Raymond Schuhmann, vice president; Mrs. Guy Wathen, recording secretary; Mrs. Edward Hyde, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Noel Delany, treasurer.

Members of the board of directors for the year will be Mrs. Harvey Bailey, Mrs. Albert Roney, Mrs. Jack Merrill and Mrs. Brown Taylor.

Mrs. Fred Glanville and Mrs. Schuhmann were named as alternate delegates to the state convention.

The new officers will be installed May 26, at Dinah's Shack.

Mrs. Robert Condie presented a report on the club's effort to interest local organizations in establishing a Family Service Council for the Palo Alto area. She reported that the Youth Council Workshop health and hygiene section would discuss the project at its next meeting May 26.

Outgoing officers of the junior club include Mrs. Egeberg, president; Mrs. Don Alvord, vice-president; Mrs. Howard Hackley, recording secretary; Mrs. Harold Emmerick, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles Nance, treasurer.

The outgoing board includes Mrs. Fred Glanville, Mrs. Phillip DiMaria, Mrs. Guy Wathen, and Mrs. William K. Smith. Mrs. Smith has also held a state post for the past two years. Mrs. William Rushworth of the local unit has served as parliamentarian here as president of the San Francisco district for the past year.

Junior Women's Club: Mrs. William Smith elected to state office at convention

Mrs. William Laverne Smith of Palo Alto Junior Women's Club was elected first vice president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, junior membership, at the group's convention at Long Beach Saturday.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. Arthur E. Crom, San Diego, president; Mrs. Milton Kwate, Orland, second vice president; Mrs. Lowell Walker, Oakland, recording secretary; Mrs. Ethel Peppers, Manhattan Beach, treasurer; and Mrs. Kathryn Tuner, Fresno, auditor.

One of the main speakers at the convention was Robert R. Gros of Palo Alto, whose topic was "What of Tomorrow?"

The Palo Alto Juniors were awarded second prize in the state penny art competition. Their prize was a painting by Mrs. Helen M. Murphy, state penny arts chairman.

Mrs. Harold Mohr has been chairman of the local penny arts group of the club for the past year.

Delegates from Palo Alto who attended the convention were Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg, Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, Mrs. William Smith, and Mrs. William Rushworth. Mrs. Jeschke is the president-elect of the group for the coming year.

A recent project undertaken was establishing a reserve in the San Mateo Blood Bank for members and their immediate families which later could be extended to cover emergency calls in town. This was placed under the chairmanship of Mrs. Bert Roney.

Under Youth Conservation, the club is supporting the library, and undertook the task of scrap books which were completed and given to the library to supplement the supply available. The girls are also members of the Palo Alto Youth Council and go to the Morning Glory School for the Blind two hours each morning to help for play guidance. They have continued their last year's project of the play school for pre-school children. The demand for this program became so great that it was taken over by the State Adult Education Program but the Juniors are continuing their support. The members' husbands devoted their spare time to making some necessary play equipment.

Penny Art Chairman, Mrs. Harold Mohr has been most industrious with tours every month and a monthly art corner at meetings featuring work done primarily by junior members. She holds an art session each month in her home and the girls are free to experiment in any medium they choose. Under this section also comes the portrait work done by members at the personality parties held in January. Proceeds from this affair were turned over to the District treasury. Members attended the party, played bridge and had their fortunes told and portraits made for a fee. Work done by members was part of an exhibit at the Senior Art Display and the local library.

Future plans are for a bridge-fashion show in March where the juniors will model and this will be followed by a dessert-bridge. The juniors are putting on a program for the seniors this month which will consist of a skit, a monologue and several other numbers.

Federation Juniors to Hold Second Annual Conference

MRS. ARTHUR CROM of San Diego, president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, Junior Membership, an organization of 7,000 women, will address the San Francisco District Federation Junior Membership at its second annual conference being held at the Palace Hotel on Saturday.

Also speaking at the morning session will be Mrs. Earl B. Shoesmith, of Paso Robles, recording secretary of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, whose topic will be "Your Federation and Mine," a history of the federation, its aims and achievements.

Mrs. John E. Nelson, of San Francisco, president of the San Francisco District Federation, and other federation officers will be among the honored guests.

Three workshops on junior membership standing committees will be conducted by their district chairmen, as follows: Mrs. Lyle Hastings, parliamentary procedure and club ethics; Mrs. George Brown, ways and means, and Mrs. Arthur Crom, federation extension.

The Vittoria Colonna Club Juniors will be hostesses at luncheon during which a variety program will be presented with each club in the district federation participating. Mrs. Robert Serr of San Jose, district president, will conduct the business meetings and Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg, of Palo Alto, is conference chairman.

P.A. Teen Center will reopen for school season tomorrow; members may bring one guest

The Teen Center at the Community Center will have its official reopening for the coming school season tomorrow night at 8, it was announced today by Benn Capp, director of general recreation for Palo Alto.

Holders of Teen Center membership cards will be permitted to take one guest each. Cards can be obtained from the Community Center, price $1.

Members of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club, co-sponsor with the recreation department, will be on hand to serve home-made cakes, ice cream, and cokes. Entertainment will include ping-pong, shuffleboard, and television.

The business program for the evening will include discussion of plans for a Haloween Dance, purchase of a juke box, and organization of a Teen Center Youth Council. Officers of the proposed council will be elected from and by membership card holders only.

Members will consider plans to redecorate the Congo Room and a possible change of name.

A membership drive also is on the books, with prizes offered to the boy or girl selling the most cards, Capp said.

Members of the Junior Women'sh Club and their husbands who have been assisting at the Teen Center are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schuhmann, Mr. and Mrs. Brown Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wathen, Mr. and Mrs. William Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Starr, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg, Mr. and Mrs. C. Z. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Roney, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones.

Mrs. Harvey Bailey, chairman of the club's youth conservation committee, has directed the club's participation.

Palo Alto Juniors Busy

Palo Alto Juniors scheduled a Bridge-Canasta - Pinochle party for January open to the public as a money making scheme, with prospective projects for lucrative gain being the Jane Lee breakfast scheduled for March 30. After the March date has been successfully marked off the calendar, one big rummage sale is chalked up in April. Mrs. Don Acton, Ways and Means chairman, reports that the Juniors netted $272.00 on their linen chest raffle last month which was the raffle of a linen chest covered with white leatherette and gold studs by Mrs. Brown Taylor, chairman of the raffle. The chest was filled with hand-made pillow cases, dishcloths, tablecloths, bridge cloths, sheets, towels and miscellaneous linen articles. As the other big money-making project of the Juniors, Mrs. William L. Millar, chairman, reports that the cook book which the Juniors had published containing all their favorite recipes has sold over 300 copies which is net profit since the publishing costs were paid by soliciting advertisements from local merchants.

Dr. Bertha Mason of San Jose spoke to the Juniors at the January business meeting and was instrumental in stimulating interest in the Family Council Service to such an extent that the Juniors have voted to support the service as necessary during the coming years. Due to the many demands on the Youth fund they were not able to completely support the service and therefore, the Palo Alto Juniors were able to make up the deficit.

Junior Women's Club will be sponsor

Miss Jane Lee, of station KNBC, will originate her "Woman's Magazine of the Air," at the Woman's Clubhouse, 471 Homer Ave., Palo Alto, tomorrow at 12 noon. The Junior Woman's Club of Palo Alto is sponsoring the program. During the half hour program Miss Lee will interview members of the junior club and their guests.

Miss Lee, who was a well-known newspaper writer before she entered radio, is a fashion authority as well as home economist and commentator. Her background includes almost every field interesting to women, from cookery to home decoration and child welfare.

She is starting her eighth year with KNBC and "Woman's Magazine of the Air." During the past few years she has interviewed many notables who have visited San Francisco.

Guests, who will be present for the broadcast, are asked to be at the clubhouse by 12 noon in order that Jane Lee and her audience may get acquainted before broadcast time.

KNBC engineers will install a special line from the clubhouse direct to the KNBC studios in San Francisco for the broadcast.

FINISHING TOUCHES—Three members of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club hang draperies in the office of the Family Service Association at 627 Waverley. The redecorating and furnishing of the office was a spring project of the juniors and service to the association will continue as it is needed. Left to right, Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, Mrs. Ray Ahlander, and Mrs. Howard Gawthrop.

DECORATING IS FIRST PROJECT

Palo Alto Junior women give aid to Family Service

The attractive, well furnished appearance the office of the Family Service Association at 637 Waverley St. presents to the public is due to the zeal and interest of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club, which has decided to make service to the association its major project.

Since the quarters that Mrs. Margaret Hawkins, executive secretary of the association, took over were very much in need of decorating and lacked any kind of furniture, the juniors attacked this problem first.

They painted walls and woodwork in an attractive shade of seafoam green and rounded up all the necessary furnishings, including venetian blinds. At meetings of the club's American Home Section, members sewed on the plaid drapes that have a seafoam green background to match the walls. The draperies were hung this week and all that remains to complete the office now are a few accessories.

Then the juniors will stand by and wait for Mrs. Hawkins to ask them for other kinds of service to the association.

Mrs. Howard Gawthrop is chairman of the committee for the project. She is being assisted by Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, Mrs. Ray Ahlander, Mrs. Harvey Bailey, and Mrs. Harold Espedal.

P. Moffett, Mrs. Edward Reed, Mrs. Richard Skoog, Mrs. I. C. Sorenson, Mrs. H. W. Starr, Mrs. Charles Walker, and Mrs. John Poore.

Mrs. Joseph Garcia, the chairman for the dinner, was assisted by Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, Mrs. Jack Merrill, and Don Acton. Mrs. Burt Roney and Mrs. Guy Wathen were chairmen for the initiation, and Mrs. Harvey Bailey was in charge of decorations.

Mrs. T. O. Dowdell, president of the Woman's Club of Palo Alto, was a guest of honor.

Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg, a member of the juniors, has been appointed public relations chairman of the Family Service Association. The club has decided on assisting the Association as its special project for the year. Members recently redecorated the Family Service headquarters at 627 Waverley St. under the chairmanship of Mrs. Howard Gawthrop.

Mrs. William L. Smith, first vice president of the California Federation of Junior Women's Clubs, visited the Napa club last Thursday.

Mrs. Clement Arnold, district adviser and adviser for the local juniors, returned from Salinas today after a visit there with the newest junior club in the San Francisco district.

Next Thursday the juniors will serve a luncheon for the Jane Lee broadcast at the clubhouse. Plans for the event are being made by Mrs. Leslie Sherwood and Mrs. William L. Smith.

Junior women plan Christmas dinner

The Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will hold its Christmas dinner Dec. 14 at Frank Ferranti's.

A Christmas tree will be provided, and guests will decorate it with greeting cards they are asked to bring. After the party the tree and its cards will be donated to the Veterans' Hospital. Reservations for the party may be made by telephoning Mrs. Edward Hyde at DAvenport 2-6521.

Junior Women open new year on busy schedule

The new year is starting with a bang this month for members of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club, with four events scheduled before the end of January.

The first is the initial board meeting of the year tonight at the home of Mrs. William Miller, 350 Iris Way. It is in preparation for the major event, a general membership meeting when new members will be voted upon. The membership meeting will be held Jan. 11 at 7:45 p.m., at the Women's Clubhouse.

Two section meetings complete the schedule. The bridge section will meet at 7:45 p.m. Jan. 18, and the American home section will meet at the same hour Jan. 25.

FAMILY FASHIONS FOR '51

Second benefit planned for proposed servicemen's club

March 16 is the date for the fashion show that will make the first coins jingle for a Palo Alto Servicemen's Club. The very next night a benefit dance will add to the flow of funds for the project.

Events are moving swiftly toward the establishment of the club, first brought to public attention when the Palo Alto unit of the American Women's Voluntary Services was formed Jan. 22.

The March 16 fashion show is sponsored by the new AWVS unit. The dance the following night is sponsored by the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club, which had announced details of its party at the Palo Alto Women's Clubhouse earlier, and which is working closely with the AWVS on the servicemen's club project.

"Family Fashions for '51," is the title of the fashions show, which will ring in Stanford athletic stars as models for the men's clothes. Styles will also be shown for women and children.

Just by way of a switch, a woman will comment on the the men's styles, and a man will comment on the women's styles. The commentators are to be Mrs. Clarence Young, for former Lois Moran, musical comedy star, and B. J. Rudquist, director of special services at the Palo Alto Veterans' Hospital.

The show is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Stanford Village Theater, tickets $1.25.

Mrs. William Curtis is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Guy Troute.

Arrangements for the affair, which will be a sport dance, are being made by Hank Norberg, who is president of the men's group, and Mrs. Jack Merrill, who will be president of the women's.

The party will be at the American Legion Hall in Los Altos. Refreshments will be served, and the price will be $1.25.

Joy Hutton to talk at Junior Women's Club

Joy F. Hutton, Palo Alto author will be the speaker at a meeting Thursday of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club.

Mr. Hutton will discuss the biography of a book, part of the club's observation of Book Week, which is to be held Nov. 13 to 18. His latest work is "Too Good to be True."

The business meeting will be at the clubhouse at 8 p.m.

Honors for Junior Women: Mrs. Merrill heads club commended for youth program; three Palo Alto women win district posts

The Junior Women's Club of Palo Alto elected Mrs. Jack Merrill as its president for the coming year at a meeting yesterday.

The day before, three Palo Alto women were elected to major offices at the meeting of the California Federation of Junior Women's Clubs, San Francisco District, and Mrs. Clement Arnold of Palo Alto was retained as district adviser.

An additional honor came to the local club when the district gave it a special award for its youth conservation projects, under which members had worked 142 hours in behalf of the teen-age Conga Room at the Community Center and the monthly Date Night parties at the Children's Theatre.

The East Palo Alto Junior Women's Club was given a special press award, along with Napa Junior Women's Club. The district takes in the area from Napa to Salinas.

Other officers elected with Mrs. Merrill at the meeting yesterday were Mrs. Guy Wathen, vice president; Mrs. Brown Taylor, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Burt Roney, recording secretary; and Mrs. Richard Beyer, treasurer. The new board of directors includes Mrs. Howard Gawthrop, Mrs. Harvey Bailey, Mrs. Phil DiMaria, and Mrs. William Miller.

Mrs. William L. Smith of Palo Alto was named president of the district, with Mrs. Guy Wathen of Palo Alto as corresponding secretary and Mrs. Noel Delany of Palo Alto as treasurer. Other district officers are Mrs. George M. Brown, San Jose, first vice president; Mrs. Julius Riedel, Santa Clara, second vice president; Mrs. Maynard Brown, Santa Clara, recording secretary; and Mrs. Robert Serr, San Jose, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Arnold was installing officer for the district meeting, held in San Mateo's Kloss Hall.

At last night's local meeting, delegates were named for the state convention to be held in Sacramento May 5 and 6. Mrs. Ralph Jeshke and Mrs. Merrill are delegates, with Mrs. Edward Hyde as alternate and Mrs. Arnold as adviser. Others planning to attend are Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg, Mrs. Joe Garcia, and Mrs. Bailey.

The convention speaker will be Walter Gordon, chairman of the California Adult Authority. The meeting will include a conducted tour of the capitol.

Besides the youth conservation program for which it was commended, the local club is organizing volunteers to aid the new Family Service Society and has already provided office decorations and other assistance to the society. In addition, Mrs. Roney is chairman of a committee working with the Save the Children Federation to aid a country school in Arkansas, to which supplies and gifts are sent regularly.

Junior Women to study budget

The budget committee and the ways and means committee of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will hold its second meeting of the year Monday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Harold Starr, 131 Heather Lane, Palo Alto.

Co-chairmen are Mrs. Roberts Jones and Mrs. Harold Starr. Others who will participate are Mrs. Clement Arnold, senior adviser; Mrs. Jack Merrill, president; Mrs. Guy Wathen, vice president; Mrs. Richard Beyer, treasurer; Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, parliamentarian; Mrs. William Smith, district president; and Mrs. Noel Dalany and Mrs. Fred Glanville, budget committee members.

Junior Women install officers at banquet rite

New officers of the Junior Women's Club were installed at a candlelight ceremony held at the Marie Antoinette in Menlo Park.

Mrs. Edward Hyde was decorations chairman, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, outgoing president. Arrangements were in blue and white, the club colors.

Mrs. Clement Arnold, club adviser, gave a talk. The junior adviser, Mrs. Walter Worrell, has been succeeded by Mrs. Charles Nance. Mrs. Worrell presented a gift to Mrs. Joseph Garcia, who is retiring from membership in the junior club.

Mrs. William Fenerin supplied beverages for the party. Mrs. Fenerin also will entertain at a bridge for club members Thursday. The next formal meeting will be in September.

Christmas decoration to be program topic

Mrs. Henry Garton will explain secrets of Christmas decoration making to members of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club, Thursday, at 8 p.m. at the Palo Alto Women's Clubhouse.

The program is sponsored by the American home section of the club. Mrs. William Miller is chairman.

Family Service agency holds 'birthday party'

The total welfare of the community is the essential problem, Dr. J. Paul Leonard, president of San Francisco State College, told an audience of 100 at the first annual dinner meeting of Family Service Association of Palo Alto at the Stanford Union last evening.

The individual should be able to seek throughout the total of the agencies of the community, the assistance that he needs. It would be unfortunate if any one agency could so impress the community that it could achieve its goal while the rest fail, he said.

Dr. Leonard stated that each should take a proportionate share of the funds so that the needs of all the agencies deemed vital to a community may be met. Just as a family plans for the interests of all its members, so must a community plan for the needs of the whole.

Life isn't going to produce a set of answers for us, he said. The real source of security is within ourselves. When that breaks down, it is the purpose of these agencies to help the individual recover it.

"We can't insulate our children against undesirable influences, neither can a community isolate itself from the impingement of the world at large, if it chooses to live in that world," he said.

People are not held in the home as much as in the past, due to changes in family life. The sick and the aged are not cared for at home as frequently; electrical and manufactured aids have reduced the number of chores; the child starts to school younger and recreation and jobs take the family out of the home more.

Mrs. Thomas A. Rowe, chairman of the board of trustees, welcomed those present to the Family Service's first birthday and expressed appreciation for the help of the committees and individuals who have assisted from its inception.

As defined in the brochure compiled by Mrs. Richard Doyle and Albert Roney of the public relations committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg, the association is a community service dedicated to better family life.

It is nonsectarian and is financed by contributions to the Palo Alto Community Youth Fund for a three-fold purpose—to give trained professional assistance in solving personal problems; to enrich parent-child relationships; and to improve social conditions directly affecting the family.

Under the chairmanship of the Rev. R. Marvin Stuart, the association was organized as a member of the Palo Alto Community Youth Fund. The Junior Women's Club of Palo Alto decorated the offices, which are located at 627 Waverley St.

Mrs. Margaret H. Hawkins, executive director, reported that since the association opened its office on Feb. 15, 1950, it has given 1420 interviews and cared for 160 family cases, which is an average of 34 families a month.

She said that Palo Alto has the distinction of being the only agency of its kind with psychiatric consultation available to it on a voluntary basis to which it may bring other agencies mutually interested in a problem for consultation.

The following members were elected to the board of trustees for a term of three years: Mrs. C. L. Bare, Stanley Bishop, Robert L. Cody, Maurice Hill, Paul Houseman, the Rev. J. Mayo Roberts, Miss Elizabeth Van Auken, and Dallas Wood. Miss Gertrude Moore was elected to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Arnold Brown, resigned.

Marchie Schwartz to give male view at fashion show

Marchie Schwartz, Stanford's football coach, will turn his attention from the gridiron to fashions for a few hours tomorrow.

It's all for the fashion show of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club, which has chosen "Football" as the theme for its style parade. The show, which will be at 1:30 p.m. at the Women's Clubhouse, will benefit the Palo Alto Youth Fund.

The Junior Women have as their special project, the Family Service Agency, for which they decorated offices at 627 Waverley St. last year.

Mr. Schwartz will be joined on the fashion stage by Bill Hudson, sports commentator, who will look at the styles from a masculine viewpcint. Patricia Wood will give the feminine view. Miss Wood will be assisted by Gwyn Brown and Elizabeth Ellis.

Palo Alto Junior Women win state convention honors

The Palo Alto Junior Women's Club won three awards at the state convention which closed yesterday at Sacramento.

The major award was the Josephine Seaman prize of merit for community service. The prize is given to one club in each of the six state districts for projects of greatest permanent value to the community conducted over a two-year period. The club's major projects here have been the teen-age center at the Community Center and service to the Family Service Association.

In addition, the local club won prizes for philanthropy, in recognition of the financial support given Palo Alto organizations, and the literature award, in recognition of books donated to foreign schools, the Save the Children Federation, and local hospitalized youngsters.

The Palo Alto delegates were Mrs. William L. Smith, Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, Mrs. Joseph Garcia, Mrs. Don Bolander, Mrs. Edward Hyde, Mrs. Jack Merrill, Mrs. Harvey Bailey, and Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg.

Mrs. Robert Serr, San Jose, president of the San Francisco District Junior Women's Clubs, was elected second vice president of the state at elections held Saturday.

East Palo Alto delegates at the convention were Mrs. John Fulton, Mrs. George Thomas, Miss Mary Vojvodich, and Mrs. William Weisheimer.

About 300 delegates attended the meeting, the theme of which was "World Federation Through Friendship." The principal speaker was Walter Gordon, whose topic was, "The Criminal and Community Responsibility.

Junior Women's Club gives barbecue in MV

A barbecue Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, 1326 Springer Road, Mountain View, was the final meeting of the season for the officers and directors of the Junior Women's Club.

Guests at the party were husbands of the club officials as well as the Rev. and Mrs. Horst Jeschke, the host's brother and sister-in-law, who are visiting here from Huston.

The outgoing officers of the club are Mrs. Clement Arnold, adviser; Mrs. Raymond Schuhmann, vice president; Mrs. Edward Hyde, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Noel Delany, treasurer; and the following directors, Mrs. Brown Taylor. Mrs. Jack Merrill, Mrs. Harvey Bailey, Mrs. Bert Roney, and Mrs. Don Bolander.

THEY'LL CARRY CANDLES—Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, left, will hand Mrs. Jack Merrill a lighted candle tonight as part of installation ceremonies for the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club. The candle will symbolize Mrs. Jeschke's turning over her presidential duties to the newly-elected Mrs. Merrill.

BY CANDLELIGHT

Junior Women install officers

The annual installation dinner of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will be held at Marie Antoinette's in Menlo Park this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Honored guests will be members who have become eligible to join the Senior Woman's Club during the past year and Mrs. Walter J. Worrell, assistant junior adviser, who is resigning.

Mrs. Clement Arnold, adviser, will act as installing officer at the candlelight ceremony and will give appropriate instructions to each officer about her duties for the coming year, as the outgoing officer hands the incoming officer a lighted candle symbolic of her position.

Each officer will be presented with a corsage in the club colors and gifts of appreciation will be presented to Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Worrell, and Mrs. Ralph Jeschke from the membership.

Mrs. Jeschke will officiate at a short business session during the dinner, and will present the Josephine Seaman award to the juniors which she received at the state convention in Sacramento.

Mrs. Edward Hyde, chairman, has used the club colors in planning the dinner decorations. She was assisted by Mrs. Harvey Bailey, Mrs. R. S. Dannenberg, and Mr. Don Bolander.

Officers being installed in the formal ceremony are Mrs. Jack Merrill, president; Mrs. Guy Wathen, vice president; Mrs. Bert Roney, recording secretary; Mrs. Brown Taylor, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Richard Byer, treasurer; Mrs. Jeschke, parliamentarian, and Mrs. Phil DiMaria, Mrs. Harvey Bailey, Mrs. William Miller, and Mrs. Howard Gawthrop, board members.

Junior Women's Club to hold their rummage sale tomorrow

The Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will hold its annual rummage sale tomorrow from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Women's Clubhouse, Homer and Cowper Sts.

Mrs. Harold Starr, general chairman, has announced the following chairmen: Mrs. Robert Jones, hats; Mrs. Frank Holmes, children's clothing; Mrs. William Fenerin, books and toys; Mrs. Burt Kendall, miscellaneous and white elephants; Mrs. John Poore, shoes and bags; Mrs. William Barnes, men's clothing; Mrs. Don Bolander, linens and lingerie; Mrs. Jack Merrill, women's ready-to-wear; Mrs. Bolander, posters, and Mrs. Jones is in charge of pick-up service. She may be contacted by calling DAvenport 2-9464.

The following members are assisting the chairmen: Mrs. Noel Delany, Mrs. William Miller, Mrs. Fred Sandermann, Mrs. Glenn Gibbs, Mrs. Ray Ahlander, Mrs. Gibbs, Mrs. Roy Ahlander, Mrs. John McCarthy, Mrs. Harold Espedel, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Don Acton, Mrs. William Potter, Mrs. Harvey Bailey, Mrs. Guy Wathen, Mrs. Joseph Garcia, Mrs. James Carper, Mrs. Richard Beyer, Mrs. Walter Farley, Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, Mrs. Edward Hyde, Mrs. Howard Gawthrop, and Mrs. Clement Arnold, senior adviser, will assist the juniors at the sale.

Junior woman's group to hold dinner dance

Plans for the dinner dance to be given March 17 by the Junior Woman's Club will be made Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Burt Kendell, chairman of the veterans' committee.

Assisting Mrs. Kendell with plans will be Mrs. Harold Starr, Mrs. William Curtis, Mrs. Robert Jones, Mrs. Harvey Baily, Mrs. Don Bolander, Mrs. Don Conway, Mrs. James Crowley, and Mrs. Aubrey Coldiron.

The St. Patrick's dance will be held at the Woman's Clubhouse.

The Tuesday meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the Kendell residence, 125 Heather Lane.

Fashion show ahead for Junior Women

Plans for an October fashion show will be up for discussion when committee chairmen of the Junior Women's Club of Palo Alto meet Thursday.

The meeting, the first of the new season for the chairmen, will be at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Roberts Jones, 154 Heather Lane.

Mrs. Arnold remains as junior club adviser

Mrs. Clement Arnold was incorrectly listed as an outgoing officer of the Junior Women's Club in Saturday's paper. Mrs. Arnold has been adviser to the junior club for a number of years and will continue next year in that capacity. She also holds the office of junior membership adviser in the San Francisco district of the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. W. L. Smith to preside at Junior women's district dinner

Mrs. William L. Smith, Palo Alto, will preside as president at the first dinner meeting of the year of the San Francisco district of Junior Women's Clubs to be held Thursday, Sept. 21, at 7 p.m. at Rene's, Bayshore Highway, East Palo Alto.

Mrs. Arthur Crom, junior state president of Federated Women's Clubs, will speak on "Universal membership."

Other guests will include Mrs. John E. Nelson, president of the San Francisco district of Senior Women's Clubs; Mrs. Robert Serr, state junior first vice president, and Mrs. Clement Arnold, San Francisco district junior adviser.

Final plans will be made at this meeting for the round table workshop to be held Oct. 7 at the home of Mrs. Clement Arnold, Palo Alto. At that time district officers and chairmen, as well as presidents and one member from each club will take part in discussions on "Ways and Means" and "Parliamentary Procedure."

Member clubs in the San Francisco district include Salinas, San Jose, Santa Clara, Palo Alto, East Palo Alto, San Mateo, St. Helena, Napa, Vittoria Colonna, American Jugoslav, and To-Kalon Junior Women's Clubs.

The Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will be hostess at next week's dinner meeting, the first at which Mrs. Smith will fill her new role as president.

Chairman for the dinner is Mrs. Guy Wathen, with Mrs. Harvey Bailey as decorations chairman, assisted by Mrs. Edward Hyde, Mrs. Howard Gawthrop, and Mrs. Don Bolander.

High school kids' 'Party Tyme' planned tonight

"Party Tyme" for high school students in the area will continue tonight at the Palo Alto Community Center, with dancing, games, and refreshments on the program. The hours will be from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

The Friday night parties are arranged by the division of general recreation of the Palo Alto Recreation Department with the cooperation of the Palo Alto High School Young People's Council, the Junior Women's Club, and the Palo Alto chapter of the American Women's Voluntary Services.

Bob (Brick) Armstrong is chairman of the high school group, Mrs. Ray Schuman has charge of the program for the junior women's club, and Mrs. James McIver for the AWVS unit.

Admission to "Party Tyme" is one dollar per couple, or 60 cents for a single admission. Sports clothes are worn and no one in jeans will be admitted.

Junior Women planning sale

The Palo Alto Junior Women's Club wil hold its annual two-day rummage sale, April 11 and 12, at the Woman's Clubhouse, Homer and Cowper Sts.

Mrs. Don Bolander, general chairman, will be assisted by the following:

Mrs. Roberts Jones, cashier; Miss Virginia Marshall, posters; Mrs. Harold Starr, children's clothes; Mrs. Fred Glanville, and Mrs. John Merrill, women's clothes; Mrs. Harvey Bailey, men's clothes; Mrs. Don Alvord and Mrs. Robert Martin, hats and purses; Mrs. Ralph Hallett, shoes.

Mrs. William Fenerin, books and magazines; Mrs. William Potter and Mrs. William Barnes, baby equipment and toys; Mrs. Robert Dannenberg and Mrs. Edward Hyde, linens and lingerie; Mrs. Burt Kendal, miscellaneous; Mrs. John Poore and Mrs. Clemet Arnold, white elephants, and Mrs. Elliott Katzen, garden supplies.

A meeting for all the chairmen will be held this evening at Mrs. Bolander's home, 643 Santa Maria, Los Altos.

Anyone having rummage they wish to have picked up are asked to call WHitecliff 8-5321 or DAvenport 2-0685.

JUNIOR WOMEN'S CLUB

Food sale to be feature of Oct. 27 fashion show

The Palo Alto Junior Women's Club doesn't want husband to get a late dinner if wife attends its fashion show Oct. 27—nor does it want guests fretting over dinner plans when all eyes should be on fall fashions.

That's why the club has planned a food sale right along with the style show. Friend Husband can look forward to a home cooked meal, complete with hot dish, salad, and dessert, and the show-goer can declare a kitchen holiday.

Models from both the junior club and the Woman's Club of Palo Alto have been named to show fashions suitable to both the junior and senior matron.

Junior models will be Mrs. Brown Taylor, Mrs. Leslie Sherwood, Mrs. Burt Kendall, Mrs. William Potter, Mrs. Jack Merrill, Mrs. Robert Condie, Mrs. Harvey Bailey, and Geraldine Jackson.

The senior models will be Mrs. Charles Nance, Mrs. Elinor Arnold, Mrs. James Marshall, Mrs. Jess Sammon, Mrs. Thad Leland, Mrs. J. Harold McFall, and Mrs. Laura Conn.

The show will take place at 1:30 p.m. at the Woman's Clubhouse. Tickets are available at Bryant's.

A "Fashion Huddle," with the accent on clothes to be worn to the football stadium and to the party afterward, will be presented Oct. 27 at 1:30 p.m. at the Palo Alto Women's Clubhouse by the Junior Women's Club.

Committee chairmen of the Junior Women's Club met last night to outline plans for the coming show and to name chairmen to arrange the details.

Mrs. Robert Jones will be general chairman. She will be assisted by Mrs. Harold Starr, tickets; Mrs. Tylor Sorenson, decorations; Mrs. Elwain Osselin, cleanup; Mrs. Robert E. Dannenberg, food; Mrs. James Glanville, food sales; Mrs. Donald Acton, models; Mrs. Roy Schumann, serving; Mrs. David Spencer, prizes.

The first board meeting of the club will be held Thursday at the home of the president, Mrs. Jack Merrill. It will be an evening meeting. Plans will be made for a district dinner meeting.

The general membership of the club will meet Sept. 14 at 8 p.m. at the clubhouse.

Junior Women name nominating committee

The Palo Alto Junior Women's Club has named Mrs. Ralph Jeschke to head its nominating committee.

Mrs. Robert Dannenberg, Mrs. William Miller, Mrs. Brown Taylor, and Mrs. William Curtis will serve.

The club will share responsibility with the new Palo Alto American Women's Voluntary Services unit for sponsorship of Friday evening dances at the Community Center for teenagers. Mrs. Raymond Schuhmann is chairman for the Women's Club, and Mrs. James McIver heads the AWVS volunteers.

FOR A ST. PATRICK'S DAY DANCE — Already preparing for the benefit St. Patrick's Day dance to be given by the Junior Women's Club of Palo Alto are three members, Mrs. Burt C. Kendall, left, who is general chairman of the event; Mrs. Harold Starr, center, reservation chairman, and Mrs. Robert Jones, who heads the decorating committee. Funds received will go towards a servicemen's Club, which is being planned by the American Women's Voluntary Service. The dance will be held March 17 at the Woman's Clubhouse in Palo Alto.

Indoor Sports?

WOTTA TEAM—Marchie Schwartz points out a few football patterns to Patricia Wood and Gwyn Brown, gettings tips on the game in preparation for the Palo Alto Women's Club Friday fashion show entitled "Football." Proceeds from the show, at the Women's Clubhouse in Palo Alto, will go to the Youth Fund.

Junior Women to initiate 19 new members at banquet

Nineteen new members of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will be initiated at a banquet tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Palo Alto Women's Clubhouse.

The affair is the club's annual initiation and secret pal dinner.

The new members are Mrs. William Potter, Mrs. Vern Dove, Mrs. Cleo Wagoner, Mrs. James Anderson, Mrs. James Crowley, Mrs. Aubrey Coldiron, Mrs. Elwain Osselin, Mrs. Bernard Lanka, Mrs. Paul Edwards, Mrs. Bruce Stephenson, Mrs. Don Conway, Mrs. J. Junior Women's Club to present minstrel show at vets' hospital

The Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will contribute holiday fun to over 200 patients at the veterans' hospital tomorrow night when members stage a minstrel show in the hospital auditorium.

MINSTREL SHOW—Mrs. Jack Merrill, left, and Mrs. Guy Wathen strike a pose in a rehearsal for the performance the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will stage tomorrow night at the veterans' hospital.

The show is an enlarged version of the one put on a few weeks ago at the annual meeting of the junior and senior women's clubs, and is another step in the preparations the junior group is making for a big minstrel show to be given later in the winter.

Mrs. Harvey Bailey is program chairman for the show the veterans will see. She will also take on the role of one of the end men in the production. Other end men will be Mrs. Robert Conde, Mrs. Fred Granville, and Mrs. Guy Wathen.

Members of the chorus will be Mrs. Edward Hyde, Mrs. John Garrot, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Brown Taylor, Mrs. Raymond Schuhmann, Mrs. William Barnes, Mrs. Ray Ahlander, Mrs. William Potter, Mrs. Edward Hopkins, Mrs. Wathen, Mrs. Jack Merrill, Mrs. J. E. Tuomy, Mrs. Roberts Jones, Mrs. Lynne Doose, and Mrs. F. P. Hunchar.

There will be a number of speciality acts. A trio composed of Mrs. William Miller, Mrs. Frank Holmes, and Mrs. John Alford will sing "The Baby Sister Blues." Mrs. Don Bolander and Mrs. Bert Bendall will do a tap routine, Mrs. William Curtis will sing "The Thing," and Mrs. Edward Hopkins will dance the Charleston.

There will also be a solo by Mrs. Schuhmann, who will sing "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and a Spanish dance by Mrs. Don Conway. Mrs. Janet Myers will be pianist and Warren Bohn will direct the chorus.

"Dixie-land jive" will be contributed by Bob Scobey and his orchestra who are contributing their talents to the show. Members of the band are Jack Buck, Wally Rose, Clancy Hays, George Probert, Squire Girshback, and Fred Higuera.

Palo Alto Minstrels

Climaxing a busy year for the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club an old-time minstrel show was given its first showing at the Palo Alto Women's Club House, the occasion being the annual Senior and Junior Women's tea.

The minstrels are planning to continue work on the show, and in addition to offering it as Christmas entertainment to hospitals and institutions in the Bay Area, will enlarge, polish, and present the show in the spring as full-fledged benefit show.

Mrs. Harvey Bailey is director of the show, as well as one of its funniest end men. The chorus consisted of 14 girls.

The Charleston star, Mrs. Edward Hopkins, stopped the show with her authentic routine. The trio consisted of Mrs. Wm. Miller, Mrs. Frank Holmes, Mrs. Donald Alvord, who sang a clever novelty song "The Baby Sister Blues"; Mrs. Donald Bolander and Mrs. Burt Kendell, who tapped their way right into the hearts of the seniors. Another end man, Mrs. Wm. Curtis forgot her lines but fortunately didn't get the hook. Mrs. Charles Nance, as interlocutor, kept the show rolling right along in true minstrel style.

Minstrel show at Woman's Club

Juniors give seniors first performance

An old-time minstrel show came to the Palo Alto Women's Club yesterday, when members of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club gave their sisters of the Senior Women's Club the first look at their show.

The minstrels are planning to continue work on the show, to offer it as Christmas entertainment to hospitals and institutions in the area. In the spring they plan to present it as a benefit.

Yesterday's joint junior-senior program began with a film, "A Criminal is Born," sponsored by the Lion's Club.

Mrs. Harvey Bailey was program chairman and director of the minstrels, as well as acting in the show. Others who took part were Mrs. Edward Hyde, Mrs. John Garrot, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Brown Taylor, Mrs. Raymond Schuhmann, Mrs. William Barnes, Mrs. Ray Ahlander, Mrs. William Potter, Mrs. Edward Hopkins, Mrs. Guy Wathen, Mrs. Jack Merrill, Mrs. J. E. Tuomy, Mrs. Robert Jones, Mrs. Lynne Doose, Mrs. F. P. Hunchar, Mrs. William Miller, Mrs. Frank Holmes, Mrs. John Alford, Mrs. Don Bolander, Mrs. Bert Kendell, Mrs. William Curtis, and Mrs. Charles Nance.

Tea was served by the Junior Women, with Mrs. Ray Ahlander chairman, assisted by Mrs. L. H. Egeberg, Mrs. James O. Glanville, and Mrs. Don Conway. Seniors who poured are Mrs. A. A. Browne, Mrs. A. S. Kayser, and Mrs. Frank Johnson.

There was also an art exhibit, with Mrs. Jack Gray Jr. as chairman. Those who exhibited were Mrs. Wathen, Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Hyde, Mrs. Tuomy, Mrs. Bailey, and Mrs. Mohr.

Youngsters have responsibility for 'Party Tymes'

Responsibility for the success of the weekly "Party Tymes" at the Palo Alto Community Center rests completely with the local youth, according to Benn Capp, director of general recreation for the city.

The sport dances are presented every Friday night from 9 to 11:30 p.m., Capp said, and the committee in charge is trying to arrange an 8 o'clock opening instead.

The entire west wing of the Center, including a "coke bar," ping-pong tables, television set, and dance floor is open to Peninsula high school students who attend the affairs.

Local service organizations are co-sponsoring the events, and provide ticket sellers and supervision (not "snoopervision," Capp said). The young people are handling the program content, staffing the refreshment bar, policing, and working on publicity, as well as assisting the adult supervisors.

A SIMILAR SCENE will take place tonight when Peninsula high school students dance at the Community Center from 9 to 11:30 p.m. Dancing to the music of George Bingham's band are Matilda Fairclough, Bob Ziegler, Joyce Brown, Chuck Haywood, Joanne Blois, and Ed Hardy. A "jam session" and a lead-the-band contest are also scheduled for tonight's "Party Tyme."

The program is co-sponsored mainly by Palo Alto High School Youth Council, the Junior Women's Club, and the Palo Alto chapter of AWVS, led by Mrs. Ray Schuman of the women's club, and Mrs. Jamese McIver of AWVS.

The division of general recreation opened the entire wing of the building in an effort to provide more entertainment and space at the affairs.

Highlights of the evening include a jazz session by George Bingham's 14-piece band, a "lead the band" contest, for which the winner is awarded a baton by Bingham, and dancing.

Bingham attends the youth council meetings every week in an effort to find out what type of music the boys and girls really desire.

"Here is an opportunity for high school youth to dance and play in a wholesome environment; to dance to good music by a large band without having to drop into a bar," Capp said.

He said the admission is $1 a couple or 60 cents per stag.

Members of the youth council are appointed by the high school commissioners after consultation with Capp. Chairman is Bob Armstrong, who is also the commissioner of social affairs for the high school student body.

Committee members include Johnny Williams, Phyllis Meyer, Sue Ziegler, Don Reeves, Bob MacDowell, Bill Farr, Mary Curtis, George Baer, Joan Hathaway, Jack Mott, Mike Arnstein, Barbara Dunbar, and Bob Ludwig.

Other students assisting on general committee work include Carol Zschokke, Joanne Blois, Willie Wan, Laurie Grey, Joan Butler, and Betsy Humbarger.

Capp said that cords and grays are allowed, but no jeans. No liquor may be brought, and no "check out" passese are issued.

Special "Party Tymes" are planned for such occasions as St. Patrick's Day and other holidays. Dances with special themes and decorations will also be part of the program, which is expected to continue through summer, if supported strongly enough by the youth.

Capp said that plans for a formal dance are also being considered.

The youth council has extended invitations to other Peninsula high school student bodies to attend the popular dances.

RUMMAGE ON THE WAY—Three members of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club do their stint loading rummage for their sale April 11 and 12 at the Palo Alto Woman's Clubhouse. Left to right are Mrs. Jack Merrill of Palo Alto, president of the club; Mrs. Don Bolander of Los Altos, chairman for the sale; and Mrs. Fred Glanville of Palo Alto.

Family Service agency started

amid splashes of paint brushe

It started with an inexpert splash of paint brushes by a few volunteer workers last February. The "it" of course being the Family Service Association of Palo Alto, located at 627 Waverley St. That was the physical beginning, but actually the need had been recognized for several years and a great deal of careful study and research had been going on.

In the community-wide workshop sponsored by the Youth Coordinating Council in the spring of 1949 it was recognized that excellent results were being obtained in meeting the recreational needs of Palo Alto young people. but it was found that there were many young people so deeply troubled by personal and family problems that they were unable to participate effectively in the recreational activities being provided for them.

Too many children with problems, it was found, came from families torn by friction; families where fathers were unemployed, families where one or both parents were alcoholics, and even families where parents were just too busy socially to have time for each other or their children.

The council concluded that most youth problems are family problems and that to round out Palo Alto's youth program it would be necessary to have an agency which would go to the root of the matter . . . the family.

The recommendations sent to the Youth Fund board outlined the type of organization needed —an organization made up of professionally trained counselors prepared and willing to offer assistance, whether the problem be one of marital difficulty, in-law trouble, alcoholism, finances, or any of the other hazards which beset happy family life.

So strongly did the members feel that an "FSA" was necessary to the youth program in Palo Alto that it was recommended to the Community Youth Fund as a "must" project. Findings of the committee agreed with independently arrived at conclusions of members of the Youth Fund board, and a budget was set up for an "FSA" in the 1949 Youth Fund Drive.

A board of directors was selected, the roster of which is a cross section of Palo Alto community life. Among those on the board are doctors, ministers, an attorney, businessmen, a retired naval officer, a newspaperman, teachers, and housewives.

This group formed a team which appreciated the real need for a Family Service Association in Palo Alto and knew how to bring one into being. The board visualized an organization which could assist troubled individuals and families in their pursuit of happy and socially useful lives.

The projected organization was to have skilled social workers available to consult with the individuals in need of assistance. And above all, to be an efficient tool, the new association must be nonsectarian and welcome anyone in trouble regardless of his race, religion, or political beliefs.

The charter and by-laws were drawn up along lines recommended by the Family Service Association of America, a nation-wide group composed of local units throughout the country, and a search was started for the professional talent necessary to carry out the aims of the projected association.

The committee secured the services of Mrs. Margaret H. Hawkins as executive director of the new association. Mrs. Hawkins, formerly of Cleveland, O., had recently moved to Palo Alto and had just returned from a vacation in Hawaii.

Mrs. Hawkins, an energetic, gray-haired woman with sparkling blue eyes, has much experience in social work and fine professional training. Following her graduation from Ohio State University, she studied at the School of Applied Social Sciences at Western Reserve University, where she received her master's degree.

She attended the Yale School of Alcohol Studies, probably the best school of its kind in America. She has been professor of social case work at Scarritt College in Nashville, Tenn.; has filled several positions with the American Red Cross, and was director of the Department of Social Work of the Cleveland Church Federation.

The Family Service Association formally went into operation Feb. 15. As mentioned earlier, the offices had been painted. The work was done by the Junior Women's Club members and their husbands. These same women made drapes and bought furniture for the office from the club funds. Before the paint was dry and furniture moved in, the first client arrived and Mrs. Hawkins was in business.

Those who arrived first had seen newspaper stories on the projected "FSA" and had waited in eager anticipation for the time when they could find help in solving problems too great to cope with alone. Since that day in February about 250 people have been benefited by the understanding and counsel provided.

In the seven and a half months since the agency was opened people from all walks of life and of all ages have come through its doors for help. There have been children unable to get along with playmates refrred to the "FSA" by school authorities; adolescents, some of them troubled by problems common only to adolescents; husbands and wives who saw their family breaking up before their eyes; and even a few grandparents.

Alcoholics have come in for assistance and have been aided through the cooperation of Alcoholics Anonymous. All of these people were as much in need of professional assistance as though they suffered from a broken leg, and Palo Alto is one of the few cities in the United States having a place to care for their needs.

Mrs. Hawkins and her secretary keep office hours between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. However, they find that the 40-hour week is merely a pleasant dream. In many cases those seeking help are not free during the day and the second story window at 627 Waverley St. is lighted on more evenings than it is dark.

The Family Servcie Association works closely with other agencies in Palo Alto. Since family problems, and particularly the problems of young people, are many-sided and may have their roots in a field best served by some other agency, the fullest cooperation is maintained with other agencies supported by the Community Youth Fund, with school authorities, law enforcement agencies, churches, and other civic groups.

Professional people in Palo Alto, recognizing the value of the FSA, have been extremely generous with their time. When the need arises, Mrs. Hawkins consults with medical doctors, ministers, attorneys, and workers in other community agencies who give their time and advice without charge to the FSA.

Also without charge to the association, seven Palo Alto psychiatrists schedule regular visits to the FSA office for consultation on any problems with which they can be of assistance. Through the FSA, workers of other social agencies wishing this service are able to obtain it by request to the FSA. The Palo Alto association may be the only one in the country having such services available.

Ministers, school authorities, the police department, physicians, and many others in Palo Alto endorse the work of the association and would like to send more clients than the agency is able to handle with its present limited staff.

If the agency is to meet the needs of Palo Alto families it will be necessary for the Family Service Association to have at least one, and preferably two, additional professionally trained case workers. The board of directors and Mrs. Hawkins, as executive, are hopeful that funds can be made available to procure an additional social worker in the not too distant future.

Counseling service is available at the Family Service Association, 627 Waverley St., to any resident of the Community Youth Fund area.

Appointments for consultation can be made by calling DA 3-2072.

Women's clubs plan joint tea

Film, minstrel show share billing

A film on child delinquency, "A Criminal Is Born," will be shown Wednesday at the annual tea of the Palo Alto junior and senior woman's clubs.

The film, sponsored here by the Lion's Club, is approved by a number of educational and welfare organizations in the country.

A second feature of the entertainment will be the minstrel show presented by the junior club, with Mrs. Harvey Bailey as director. Mrs. Clyde Nance will be interlocutor while the "end men" will be Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. William Curtis, Mrs. Robert Condie. and Mrs. J. E. Tuomy.

The show will feature a trio composed of Mrs. William Miller, Mrs. Frank Holmes, and Mrs. Don Alvord, and tap dancing by Mrs. Burt Kendall and Mrs. Don Bolander.

The tea will commence at 2 p.m. at the women's clubhouse. The junior club will arrange the entertainment and serve the refreshments, which will be provided by the senior organization.

Junior women's club scores with benefit fashion show

One project at a time is never enough for the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club.

With its benefit fashion show of yesterday still a bright memory, the club is already launched on a minstrel show for which it plans repeated performances leading up to a giant benefit in the spring. But more of that later.

The fashion show was a giant undertaking, with an array of over 60 ensembles shown. Models for the event were drawn from both the junior and senior Women's Club memberships, lending a variety and special interest to the clothes shown.

The models from the junior club were Mrs. Harvey Bailey, Mrs. Robert Condie, Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, Mrs. Burt Kendall, Mrs. William Potter, Mrs. Leslie Sherwood, Mrs. Brown Taylor, and the club president, Mrs. Jack Merrill.

The senior models were headed by the president of that club, Mrs. James Marshall, and included Mrs. Elinor Arnold, Mrs. George Boyle, Mrs. Harold McFall, Mrs. Charles Nance, Mrs. Jess Sammon, and Mrs. P. M. Speeden.

Mrs. Roberts Jones was chairman for the event, which drew a full house to the Women's Clubhouse. Guests were seated at tables for dessert in the club's main hall, and the mannequins posed first on the stage where all could get a general view, and then strolled among the tables so that guests could get a closeup look.

The committee included Mrs. Don Alvord, models; Mrs. Edward Hopkins, music; Mrs. R. S. Dannenberg, refreshments; Mrs. Elwain Osselin, restoration; Mrs. Robert Martin, decorations; Mrs. Raymond Schuhmann, serving; Mrs. Don Bolander, posters; Mrs. William Curtiss, publicity; Mrs. David Spencer, prizes; Mrs. Harold Starr, tickets and program; and Mrs. James Glanville, food sale.

Patricia Wood was commentator for the show, which took football as its theme, but which covered hours of the day well before and after the stadium schedule.

The first portion of the showing was given over to lingerie, with a varied array of feminine apparel for wear at home and in the boudoir. Later on, attention was turned to informal wear and suits, winding up in a blaze of after-dark glory.

A highlight of the show was a rainbow net formal gown, done in delicate and blending shades, its skirt billowing out below a fitted bodice. At the shoulders was draped a vari-colored bertha. To add emphasis to the nostalgic charm of the gown, the model and her escort did a waltz, to which the skirt of the gown rippled a colorful accompaniment.

Mrs. Burt Kendall added a not-so-long touch by modeling a group of heirloom dresses from the days of the Roaring '20s, complete with T-strap sandals and even a tremendous racoon coat. As a finale, Mrs. Kendall stepped out in a 1950 version of the chemise dress, but much more attractive to today's eye, and performed a pert Charleston that suited her role perfectly.

The two club presidents reflected the season's interest in purples. Mrs. Marshall accented a dignified gown of gray lace with a bunch of violets at the waist and a handsome hat in a shade of purple called "Vatican" this year to emphasize the designers' debt to the Renaissance for inspiration this year. Mrs. Merrill's shade was much lighter, a mauve, used in satin to fashion a gleaming ball gown complete with matching gauntlets.

With yesterday's success safely tucked away, the club will now turn full attention to the minstrel show, for which members are already diligently taking dance and music lessons. Mrs. Harvey Bailey is chairman. Plans call for a premiere to be given the sister senior club, and then a round of "one-night-stands" at hospitals and other places.

Then, in the spring, the show will be enlarged, polished, and presented as a full-fledged benefit show.

The performance is being planned along strictly traditional minstrel lines, with Mr. Bones in attendance, and with authentic costumes for everybody.

Additional plans of the club call for a district dinner Nov. 8 in San Francisco, and, of course, the continuation of regular club meetings.

Dr. Peter S. Talbot and Dr. Anthony J. Thompson were speakers at the club's last business meeting. Dr. Talbot discussed the new "Childbirth Without Fear" practices, and Dr. Thompson described the advantages of the so-called "rooming-in" plan, in which mothers and their newborn babies share a hospital room and nurseries.

AN UNIDENTIFIED CHARACTER peers from the wall as Tom Stratton hits the ping pong ball in the Community Center basement, which provides table games for the Friday parties. AIRCRAFTSMAN — Palo Alto High School Senior Buddy Wolken works on a plane model he will enter in the Youth Talent Exhibit at Jordan gym Jan. 25-28. Buddy won a gold cup with one of his models in the Hayward 180-lap race last July, and won a Palo Alto glider contest in 1949. In line with his model hobby, he is a member of the Junior Museum's U-Liners Club and the Cardinal Flyers. He also likes to tinker with old cars and boats, and has a photographic darkroom where he does his own developing and printing. He has been building models for five years, adding to his skill in the craft through chats with fellow hobbyists, reading model magazines, and trial and error work.

PERFECTIONIST — Trains that Ronald Mann will enter in the Youth Talent Exhibit at Jordan Junior High Jan. 25-28 are calculated to gladden the heart of any old-timer. No fancy diesels or electric streamliners for him. He builds old-fashioned engines and cars, right down to the last authentic detail. Ronny is a junior at Palo Alto High.

LITTLE WATER, LOT OF COLOR — Jordan Ninth Grader Phoebe Crary looks over a water color she will enter in the Youth Talent Exhibit Jan. 25-28 in the Jordan gym. Phoebe's brushwork is fast filling the family living room but will find plenty of space in the arts group of the talent show. Other groups open to exhibitors from 12 to 18 years old are crafts, natural history, science, and music, drama, and literature. Entry blanks, due Jan. 12, are available at schools, hobby houses, and the Palo Alto Times.

AT LAST MEETING

New officers installed at Woman's Club

New officers of the Woman's Club of Palo Alto were installed yesterday at the final meeting of the season, the Founders' Day luncheon, held at the clubhouse.

Mrs. Clement H. Arnold was the installing officer. The new president of the group is Mrs. James G. Marshall, whose offices have included the music chairmanship of the local club for the past year and the second vice presidency of the Santa Clara County Federation. She is also a past officer of Eastern Star. With her husband, Mrs. Marshall has prepared and presented words and music programs for radio.

New board members of the club are Mrs. David Neilson, Mrs. Glenn Kenyon, Mrs. G. L. Vanderhoeven, Mrs. Laura Conn, and Mrs. R. S. Tufts.

Other new officers are Mrs. A. K. Spielberger, first vice president; Mrs. Norwood Burch, auditor; Mrs. Francisco de Lemos, custodian of records; Mrs. J. Harold McFall, parliamentarian; Mrs. John F. Duckworth, treasurer; Mrs. William A. Pinkerton, recording secretary; and Mrs. Ulrich Ahronheim, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Arnold described the duties of each officer and presented each with a corsage.

The musical program for the luncheon included selections by Phyllis Jones Williams, harpist, by a choir of Woman's Club members led by Mrs. Harry Larmour. The choir sang one of the selections presented by the state choir at the recent Sacramento convention. The largest single delegation in the composite state choir was made up of the 10 Palo Alto representatives who participated.

Other honored guests who were seated at the presidents' table were Mrs. Jack Merrill, new president of the Junior Women's Club, and Mrs. William Smith, president of the San Francisco district.

All set to show their stuff—

Week left before deadline on Youth Talent Exhibit entries

Entry forms for the Youth Talent Exhibit to be held in Palo Alto from Jan. 25 through 28 are due at Palo Alto Post Office Box 246 by the 12th, it has been announced by the exhibit chairman, Fielding McDearmon.

Purpose of the show is to give public recognition and encouragement to the constructive achievements of local young people in the fields of arts, crafts, and science.

The Palo Alto exhibit will follow the general pattern of the extremely successful talent show organized at Sequoia Union High School last year by Janie Coolidge. It was Janie who promoted the local show after she moved with her family to Palo Alto.

Entries must be delivered to Jordan Junior High School gymnasium between Jan. 19 and 21. The show is open to young people between the ages of 12 and 18, inclusive, or seventh through 12th grades. There will be four age categories.

Work categories will be:

Arts — Paintings, graphic arts, sculpture, musical compositions, creative writings, and photography.

Crafts — Models, needlework, leatherwork, woodwork, metalwork, ceramics, and miscellaneous handicrafts.

Natural history — Plant, animineral.

Ssience—Demonstrations of scientific processes, homemade telescopes, cameras, and so on.

In addition to the grand prize of a large, engraved cup, 20 cups and 61 ribbons will be awarded.

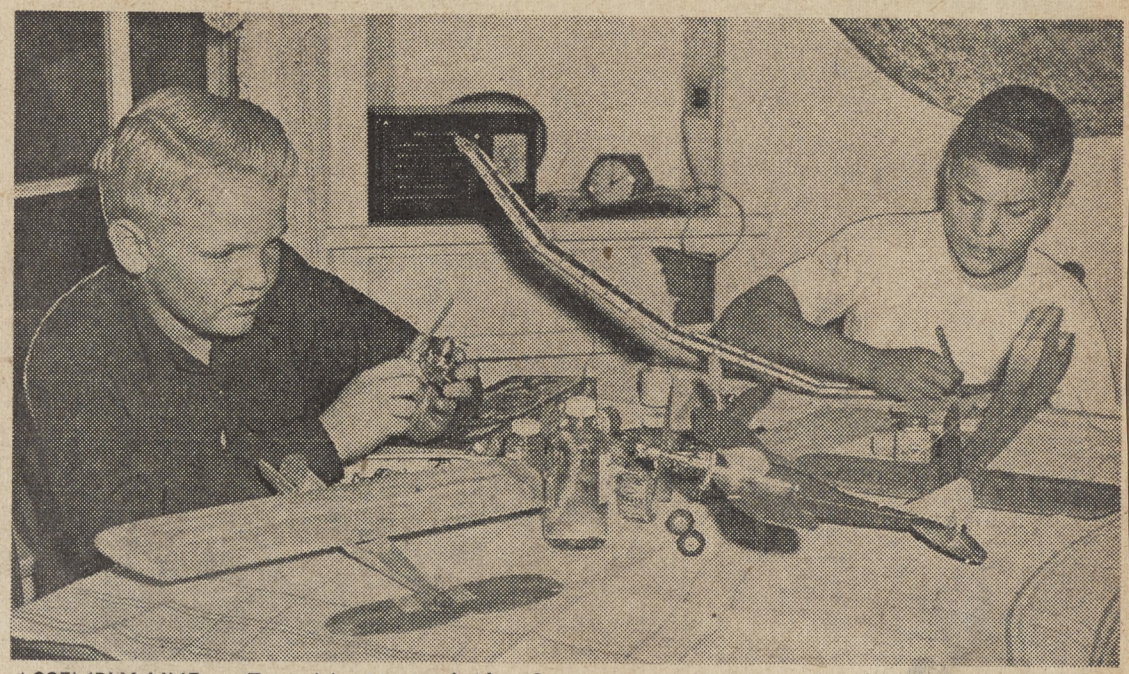
The venture has the financial support of the following Palo Alto organizations:

Army-Navy Women's Club, Woman's Club of Palo Alto, Rainbow Mothers' Club, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club; Quota Club, Optimist Club, Elk's Club, Exchange Club, Lions Club of South Palo Alto, 20-30 Club, and Jordan Junior High School PTA.

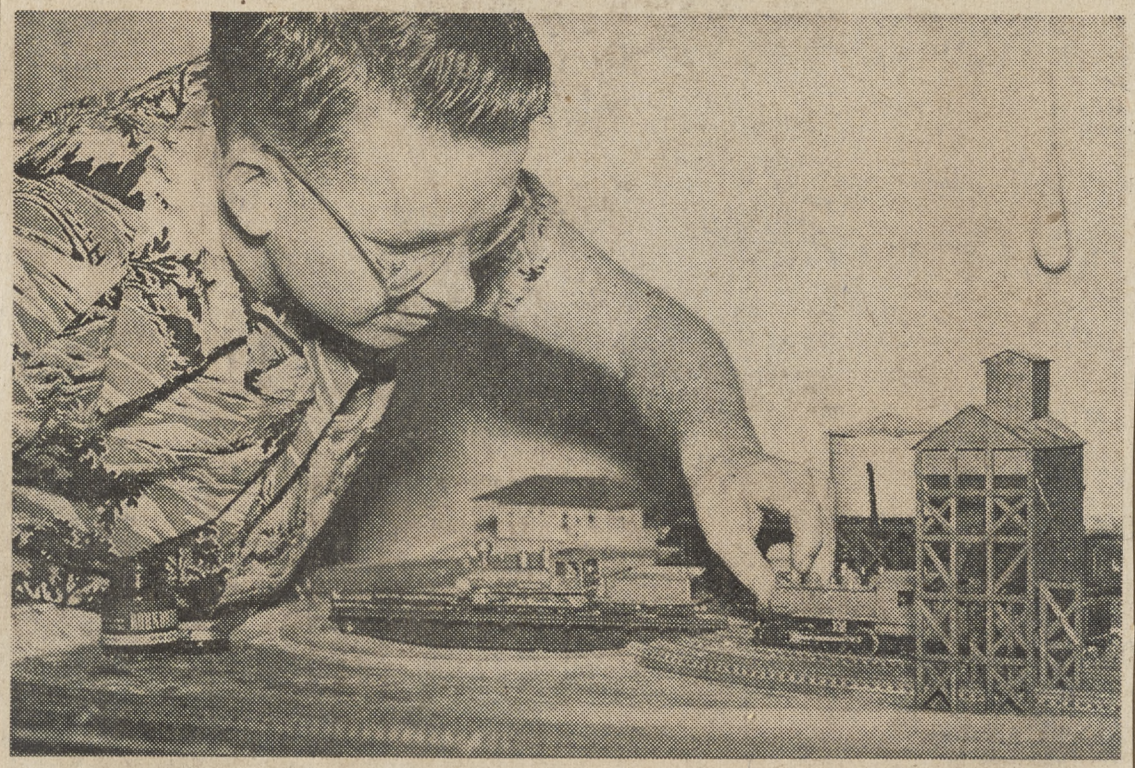
In addition to financial support, aid is also being given by De Molay, Girl Scouts, YWCA, Junior Museum, Palo Alto Lions Club, Junior Women's Club, the senior high school, and the Art Club.

Members of the Kiwanis Club will process entry forms, South Palo Alto Lions Club will be in charge of transportation and setting up of display racks and other properties, and the Art Club will assist with display of entries and judging.

Treasurer for the show is John Santana Jr.



ASSEMBLY LINE — Terry Morrison and Alan Garcia, a pair of 12-year-old airplane model enthusiasts who have entered the Youth Talent Exhibit, go to work with balsa, tissue paper, paint, and motors you can hold in the palm of your hand to prepare their exhibits. The boys, both Jordan Junior High School students, have been at their hobby for several years. When the hours of work they have put in on a model are lost in a crash, they accept it as part of the sport and try to profit by the mistake. Terry has another skill — building radios. He has assembled two so far and may enter one in the show, which is open to local young people from 12 to 18 who have some sort of creative hobby.



FUTURE RAILROADER? Could be that John Baker, who will enter a model railroad exhibit he has made in the Youth Talent Exhibit, will end up a railroad man, but maybe not. He thinks model trains are much more interesting than regular-size trains. John, a senior at Palo Alto High, was a model plane builder until his friend Ronald Mann "railroaded" him into this enterprise. John, Ronny, and two other model trainmen, Dave Mussatti and Robert Brown, will have a "live" exhibit at the youth talent show, including the equipment John is touching up in the photo.

JUNIOR WOMAN'S CLUB STATE CONVENTION
1951
CORONADO, CALIFORNIA

, MONDAY, MAY 7, 1951

JUNIOR WOMEN'S CONVENTION

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Six P.A. members attend

Six members of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club attended the 23rd annual Clubwomen's convention in Coronado.

Those attending were Mrs. Clement Arnold, adviser; Mrs. Edward Hyde, president elect; Mrs. William Smith, outgoing president; Mrs. Don Bolander, Mrs. Burt Kendall, and Mrs. Harold Starr.

Mrs. Albert Peters of the San Joaquin Valley club was elected president.

The following officers were also elected:

Mrs. Robert Serr, San Francisco, first vice president; Mrs. James Kavanaugh, Riverside, second vice president; Mrs. Vernon Frietan, Red Bluff, recording secretary; Miss Betty Lockett, Los Angeles, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Bowman, Alameda, auditor.

The two-day conference of California Federation of Juniors, which precedes next week's senior convention here, was drawing a record of more than 400 delegates last night. More were expected.

Winner of the coveted "Build a Better Community" prize was the Torrance Junior Women's Club.

The Torrance juniors, competing against the state's 150 other clubs, won the prize for raising funds to construct a YWCA.

Mrs. Jay T. Cooper, San Francisco, president of the senior federation, will adddress the juniors this afternoon. Mrs. Roy D. Lay, state advisor for junior clubs, will install the new officers.

Torrance in winning the sweepstakes prize, ranked first among medium size clubs.

The Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale was first in the large club division; San Bernardino juniors were second; and the Junior Ebell Club of Anaheim was third. Gardena's juniors were first in the small club division. Winners of other contests include:

Fine arts—drama, Temple City juniors.

Josephine Seaman award for community betterment—Oakland Junior Club and Glendale Tuesday Afternoon Club.

Crafts—20th Century Club of Eagle Rock, Burbank juniors, Gardena juniors and Monrovia juniors.

Philanthropy — Maxwell, Gardena, Biggs, Palo Alto, Temple City and Torrance juniors.

Penny art—Santa Maria (small clubs); Downey (medium; Azusa (large).

Palo Alto was fourth in the medium division.

International relations—Whittier juniors and Artesia juniors.

First 23 miles of trip to capital were the toughest

1951

The first 23 miles were the toughest for Palo Alto's delegation to Gov. Earl Warren's conference on highway problems yesterday in Sacramento.

Highway hazards were left behind as the Peninsulans boarded Clipper Rainbow, a luxurious stratocruiser, at Pan-American Airways Airport.

Eighteen minutes' flying time at 5000 feet were what Capt. Bert (Buckshot) Lien allowed for the flight to Sacramento.

"Bayshore is the most dangerous part of the trip," Captain Lien said, and he ought to know, as he is a Palo Alto resident who commutes to the airport when on duty.

Peninsulans visiting the cockpit during the brief flight were made at home by Lien and two other residents of the area, Bob Somers of Palo Alto, co-pilot, and Walter Abel, engineer, who lives in Menlo Park.

In addition, they met the filght's self-styled "stowaway," Lien's next door neighbor, Capt. Fred Lindholm, a steamship captain just home from a trip to South America.

Captain Lindholm came along for the ride but declared himself so interested in the highway problem that he stayed with the delegation and attended the conference with Governor Warren.

The Peninsula mission got off to a promising start when Norman Corlett, a member of the Burlingame group, showed up with a newspaper clipping of his horoscope for the day. It read:

"Brush routines aside and concentrate on seeing influential, sober-minded persons who listen quietly without yet giving you the 'go' signal now."

A misplaced delegation and a forgotten bundle of Bayshore petitions provided the expedition with its only two mishaps—and both problems were soon overcome.

The party from San Mateo waited at the wrong airport until shortly before departure time when it moved up the highway to the Pan-American Airport.

Burlingame's petitions were left behind at the chamber of commerce office, but were spotted by an alert secretary, who dispatched a city policeman to the airport with them.

The party lunched as guests of the airline at the firm's big cafeteria before the noon take-off.

In Sacramento, the delegation was taken by Greyhound bus to the capitol where a tour of the new annex and the senate and assembly chambers was conducted before the conference with the governor. M. F. (Pop) Small arranged for the tour of the annex. The Greyhound company furnished the buses free of charge.

PALO ALTO'S DELEGATION to the highway conference with Governor Warren yesterday included (from left) Linn Winterbotham, secretary-manager of the chamber of commerce; Vice-Mayor Walter Gaspar; Gene Bishop, publisher of the Times, and J. R. Paulson, Times managing editor. Governor Warren told them that the state anticipates that 3400 persons will be killed on the highways this year and that more revenue is needed to build better and safer highways.

BOOSTER CLUB'S EFFORTS NETS $1800 FOR BAND UNIFORM FUND

Members of the Paly High Boosters Club were as happy as the Palo Alto student rooters late yesterday as they trooped out of Ray Field after their Vikings had edged Burlingame 12-7.

The Band Day promotion sponsored by the Boosters netted about $1800 which will go for new uniforms for the Paly Band, and brought out the largest home crowd in many a year. Extra bleachers imported for the tilt were empty when the game began, but filled up during the first quarter as ticket holders left their jobs to watch the game.

Success of the event is expected to spur the Boosters on toward their long-range goal of equipping the high school football field with lights and new grandstands.

"Hoo-ray for Paly, Hoo-ray for Paly," sang several hundred hoarse Viking rooters outside their team's dressing room. Then the serenaders went through verse after verse, chanting the praises of their individual grid greats.

When they had finished, they walked toward the Burlingame locker-room and, after giving the vanquished some good-natured razzing, sounded a "Burlingame varsity six."

In the Panther quarters there was the quiet of a team that had lost a tough battle. But Coach Elmer Schaake's men had plenty to be proud of—they'd given the defending Peninsula Athletic League champs their closest call in 14 games, and they'd been anything but the pushovers they were a year ago when Paly won 52-0.

As they donned street clothes, the Norse were in good spirits but discussed reasons why they hadn't won by a wider margin.

Actually the game split the difference in attitudes of the two teams. Burlingame really expected to overcome the odds and win, while the Norse had planned a more decisive triumph.

Schaake had little to say, except that he thought his boys were "too high" for the game...

"We were very tight in the first half, and couldn't get started," he said, adding that Paly was also tense in the opening periods. Schaake was proud of the play of John Treu, his demon 160-pound defensive end.

Paly Coach Had Ray said his Vikes were sluggish at points in their blocking and tackling, perhaps the results of a bye a week ago. But the tackling improved as the game wore on and both teams made some neat defensive plays.

Hod said Tackle Chris Marshall was in Burlingame's backfield all afternoon. He also liked Center Gary Williams's linebacking and Tackle George Read's charging.

Quarterback Lem Bishop, who hit seven of nine passes, was excellent in his pitching and faking, the veteran coach said, and End John Stewart made some great catches. Bishop suffered an arm injury but was able to play later in the game.

Among the running backs Hod liked the play of Jim Farrell and Frank Mills. He credited Guard Ted Davidson with the key block that sprung Farrell on Assistant Coach Mike Durket's dipsy-doodle spread, which set up the first touchdown.

Junior Women name Mrs. Hyde

Mrs. Edward Hyde is the new president of the Palo Alto Junior Woman's Club.

Officers who will serve with her are Mrs. Harvey Bailey, vice president; Mrs. Claude Anderson, recording secretary; Mrs. Jack Tuomy, treasurer; and Mrs. R. E. Dannenberg, corresponding secretary.

Members of the board of directors are Mrs. Elliott Katzen, Mrs. James Crowley, Mrs. Bert Roney, and Mrs. William Miller. Jerry Jackson is secret pal chairman. Mrs. Don Bolander has been named delegate to the state convention to be held next month in Coronado.

Junior Women's Clubs choose theme for annual project

The California Federated Junior Women's Clubs have chosen as the theme for their project this year, "Build a Better Community."

The classifications of the project will be under the following eight headings:

Health, youth, education, culture, fine arts, conservation, and beautification, safety, and housing and government.

One hundred per cent participation of all Junior Clubs must be obtained in order to receive the $2000 in prizes to be given by a major dry goods company.

Prizes will be awarded on the basis of work accomplished in any one or all of the classifications.

DAILY PALO ALTO TIMES, THURSDAY, APRIL 19, 1951

FOR BAY DISTRICT

Anne Vukasovich named president of Junior Women

Mrs. William L. Smith of Palo Alto was succeeded by Anne Vukasovich of San Francisco in the presidency of the Bay Area district of the Junior Women's Clubs.

The Palo Alto Club took all three project prizes for clubs with a membership of more than 36, for youth conservation, penny arts, and press. The East Palo Alto club, which comes in the under-35-members category, received youth conservation and press awards.

The announcements came last night at the district meeting in Belmont. The Salinas club was given a special award for a well-baby clinic it has established for underprivileged children.

There was also news that Palo Alto will receive an award for penny arts at the state convention in May. The award is for encouraging young artists. In Palo Alto two scholarships are being given this year, to Lillian Furstenberg and Carolyn Maita, whose work was selected as outstanding by a committee of club members and art teachers.

Other district officers named last night were Gladyas Anenson, East Palo Alto, first vice-president; Bonnie Ish, Salinas, second vice president; Helen Reidel, recording secretary; Marie Funke, San Mateo, treasurer, and Mary Jean Cremer, Lower Lake, auditor. Mrs. Clement Arnold of Palo Alto will continue as adviser.

Besides Mrs. Smith, outgoing officers from Palo Alto are Mrs. Guy Wathen, and Mrs. Noel De Laney.

Two women honored at tea today

Two women, Mrs. John Stroud and Mrs. Herb Nurmi, were guests of honor today at a tea given by Mrs. Don Conway at her Palo Alto home.

Mrs. Conway is a sponsor for both women in their new membership in the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club. Among the guests at the tea were the honorees' other sponsors, Mrs. F. P. Hunchar, Mrs. Ed Reed, and Mrs. Edward Hyde. Mrs. Hyde is president of the club.

Junior Women honor seven new members

Seven newly-elected members and three transfer members have been named by the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club. They were honored at a tea at the home of their senior adviser, Mrs. Clement Arnold.

New members include Mrs. Keith N. Brentlinger, Mrs. R. Herbert Nurmi, Mrs. David Graham, Mrs. Vince H. Howerton, Mrs. Simon C. Sommer, Mrs. John F. Stroud, and Mrs. Guy Troute.

Transfer members are Mrs. Stewart Holt from Queen's Village Junior Women's Club, New York; Mrs. Grance Vance of Los Altos, from San Jose Juniors, and Mrs. Myron Osmunson of Redwood City, from Glenview Juniors of Oakland.

The Juniors support the General Federation of Women's Clubs' "CARE for Korea" campaign, give monthly ward parties at the Veterans' Hospital, and contribute to the federation's rural school in Arkansas, in addition to taking part in local civic activities.

A dozen bridge winners have been named in the annual tournament of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club.

They are Mrs. William Robertson, Mrs. Bert Roney, Mrs. Fred Glanville, Mrs. James Crowley, Mrs. Elliot Catzin, Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, Mrs. Edward Hyde, Mrs. Guy Wathen, Mrs. Jack Merrill, Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg, Mrs. William Fenerin, and Mrs. Clement Arnold.

The group lunched recently at the Allied Arts Guild before going on to Mrs. Wathen's for bridge.

Librarian to address Junior Women's Club

Miss Marjorie Frink of the Palo Alto Public Library will review several books at tomorrow's meeting of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club.

The meeting will be held at the Woman's Club at 7:45 p.m. Mrs. Robert Barnes and Mrs. Ed Hazen will be welcomed as new members.

JUNE 14, 1951

The Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will celebrate its tenth birthday this evening at 7:30 p.m. with an installation banquet at the Officer's Club, Moffett Field.

Mrs. Bert Roney is chairman for the dinner. The past president of the Palo Alto Woman's Club, Mrs. James Marshall, and the recently-installed president, Mrs. A. K. Spielberger, will be among the guests of honor. Other guests will be Mrs. Clement Arnold, the club adviser, and her assistant, Mrs. Charles Nance.

A "wheel of progress" installation ceremony will be used.

AT BANQUET

Junior Women greet officers

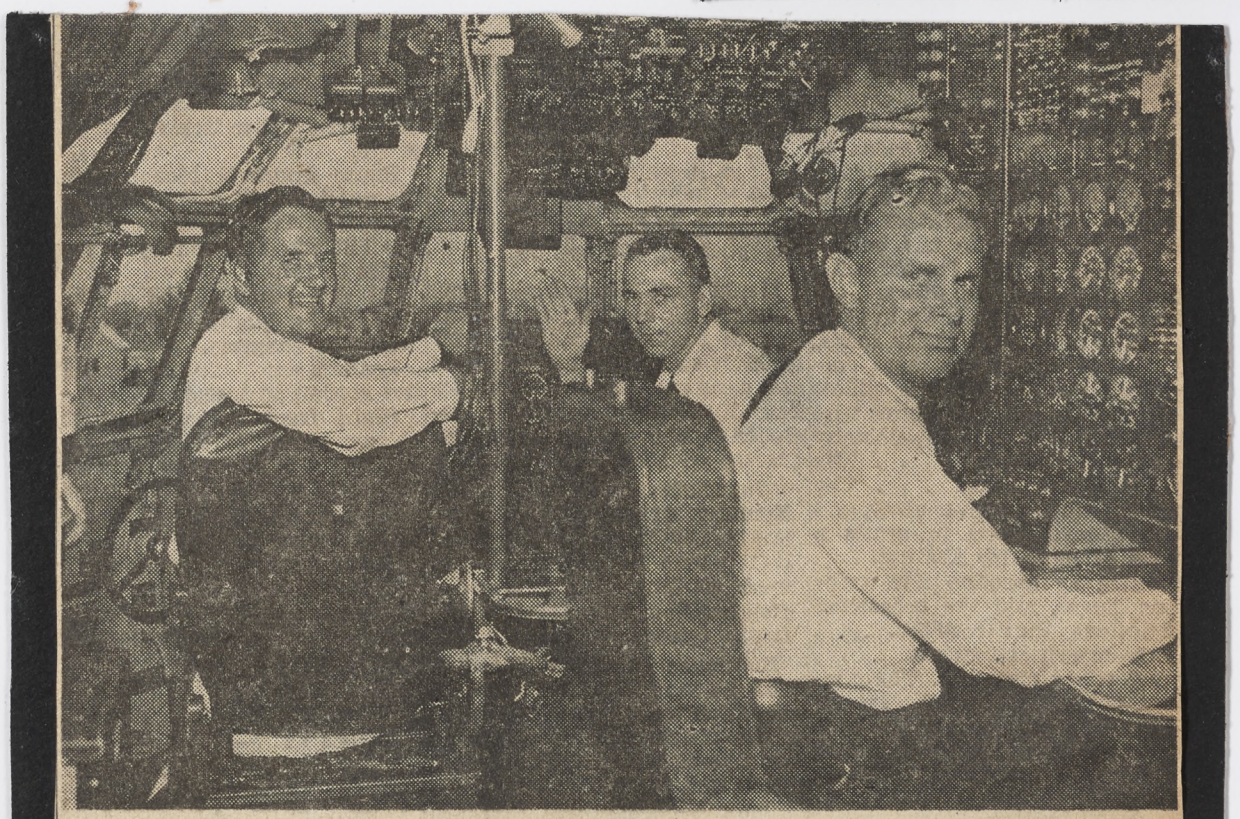
New officers for the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club were installed last night at a ceremonial banquet at the Moffett Field Officers' Club.

The new officers are Mrs. Edward Hyde, president; Mrs. Harvey Bailey, vice president; Mrs. Claude Anderson, secretary; Mrs. Jack Tuomy, treasurer; Mrs. R. S. Dannenberg, corresponding secretary; Mrs. R. C. Beyer, auditor. Board members are Mrs. Bert Roney, Mrs. James Crowley, Mrs. William Miller, and Mrs. Elliot Catzen.

Chairman of the standing committees are Mrs. John Gray Jr., membership; Mrs. William Potter, sunshine; Mrs. Don Alvord, hospitality; Mrs. Ray Schuhmann, ways and means; Mrs. Bert Kendall, publicity; and Mrs. J. N. Garoutte, penny arts.

Mrs. William Smith, youth conservation; Mrs. Don Bolander, public welfare; Mrs. Catzen, American Home; Mrs. William Robertson, bridge; Mrs. Jack Merrill, parliamentarian; Mrs. Don Conway, drama; Mrs. Ray Hallett, historian; Mrs. Guy Wathen, music; and Mrs. Harold Starr, federation extension.

Mrs. Browning Taylor, bulletin; Mrs. William Barnes, hall rental; Mrs. John Glanville, cookbook; Mrs. Vern Dove, tea; Mrs. Robert Martin, phone; and Mrs. Wathen, yearbook.



CREW MEMBERS of the giant Pan American stratocruiser which transported Peninsula delegates to Sacramento yesterday afternoon for a conference on highways were neighbors of the delegates. They are (from left) Capt. Bert (Buck-shot) Lien of Palo Alto, pilot; Robert Somers of Palo Alto, first officer, and Walter Abel of Menlo Park, flight engineer. Members of the delegation took turns visiting the cabin with its wilderness of complicated equipment.

FALL ACTIVITIES

Junior Women planning season

Women's Page
HEDY BOISSEVAIN, Editor

The Junior Women's Club of Palo Alto will hold its first meeting of the new year this evening at 8 o'clock at the Women's Clubhouse.

The past active presidents of the club will be introduced as will the new members.

Plans for the group's October fashion show will also be made.

The past-active presidents include Mrs. John Glanville, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Fred Glanville, Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg, and Mrs. Jack Merrill.

Mrs. Edward Hyde, president, will be chairman of the evening. She will be assisted by Mrs. John Gray, membership chairman, and Mrs. Don Alvord, hospitality chairman.

Other officers who will take part in this evening's program will be Mrs. Harvey Bailey, vice-president, who will introduce the guests, and Mrs. Gray, who will introduce the new members.

They include Mrs. Guy Troute, Mrs. John Stround, and Mrs. Lois Murmi.

Also to be discussed will be the Junior Women's Club District Luncheon Saturday in Salinas.

Among those planning to attend are Mrs. Hyde, Mrs. Clement Arnold, Mrs. Jack Merrill, Mrs. J. E. Tuomy, Mrs. Elliot Katzen, Mrs. Ralph Jeschke, Mrs. Jim Crowley, and Mrs. Bonnie Dove.

Tea chairmen for tonight will be Mrs. Dove, Mrs. Guy Wathen, Mrs. Brown Taylor, and Mrs. Harold W. Starr.

The American home section of the club will meet on Sept. 27 at the clubhouse at 7:45 p.m. for a lecture on "Streamlined Sewing."

JUNIOR WOMEN MAKE PLANS — Completing plans for the first fall meeting of the Junior Women's Club, to be held this evening, are the three chairmen. They are (left to right) Mrs. Donald Alvord, hospitality chairman; Mrs. John H. Gray, membership chairman; and Mrs. Edward Hyde, president. The meeting will be held at the Palo Alto Women's Clubhouse.

P.A. Junior Women to attend SF meeting

The Palo Alto Junior Women's Club has named several members to represent it at the San Francisco and Alameda District Club Institute in San Francisco tomorrow.

The Vittoria Colonna Club will hostess the institute in the Whitcomb Hotel.

Among those planning to attend are Mrs. Clement Arnold, adviser; Mrs. Ewdard Hyde, president; Mrs. Elliott Katzen, Mrs. Don Bolander, Mrs. Roberts S. Jones, Mrs. J. E. Toumy, Mrs. William Smith, and Mrs. John Gray.

SIGNATURES of more than 1100 mid-Peninsula residents were obtained by Mrs. Helen Negrin (left) of San Mateo on petitions asking for early completion of the Bayshore Freeway. Mrs. Negrin turned the petitions over to Mrs. Jack Merrill (right) of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club yesterday on Blood Bayshore Day. The petitions carry signatures of San Mateo County supervisors and employes, San Mateo policemen, and Peninsula Greyhound bus drivers. Mrs. Negrin's collection will be included with signatures secured by the Burlingame Advance and Burlingame Chamber of Commerce.

Paly High Boosters raise $1100 for band uniforms, board informed

The Paly High Boosters raised their $1100 pledge of funds toward purchase of uniforms for the school band out of ticket sales for the Palo Alto-Burlingame football game, President Glenn Kenyon told members of the Palo Alto School Board last night.

In fact, approximately $300 was left over for other projects, the next of which will be an appearance of the Firehouse Five plus two in December.

Bill Farr, high school public welfare commissioner, is working on plans for a jazz concert featuring the Firehouse Five which he feels will be quite successful financially. The Boosters are sponsoring the project.

Kenyon presented a design for the uniforms, prepared by Julius Shuchat, director of both the Palo Alto High School and Stanford University bands.

The design is simple but attractive, featuring green material with a white trim.

Only a third of the amount needed for the uniforms has been raised, and the source from which the other two-thirds will come is not definite.

A Booster spokesman previously had said the students agreed to finance a third, and the students thought the school board had made a similar commitment.

It turned out that neither was the case, and the school board left the matter up to the Boosters and students.

There is no money available in this year's budget for such a project.

Kenyon and Farr both sought board approval to start raising funds for lights at Hod Ray Field, but they were told to come back when their plans were more complete and they had something definite to propose.

Board President Merrill M. Vanderpool appointed Grace (Mrs. Arnold) Brown to head a curriculum advisory committee. Mrs. Brown and Superintendent of Schools Dr. Henry M. Gunn will decide on other committee members at a later date.

Bills totaling $214,901.70 were approved for payment.

A letter from John M. Hanley criticizing methods of presentation by teachers in social studies classes was read to the board by Dr. Gunn. Hanley is a 1951 Palo Alto High School graduate. No action was taken.

In personnel matters the board:

1. Granted sabbatical leave to Miss Barbara Welch, instrumental music teacher at Jordan Junior High School. She plans to take courses at Columbia University during the 1952-53 school year.

2. Approved appointment of Mrs. Eulah Bevilockway as halftime clerk in the curriculum and attendance offices.

3. Approved appointment of Mrs. Roy Sands McCann to teach an adult school course in china painting.

4. Approved appointment of Lee Weinstein to teach an adult school class in beginning French, replacing Savel Kliachko, who is leaving Palo Alto.

5. Approved appointment of Mrs. Arsena Wolsnack to teach an adult school course for expectant mothers.

6. Approved appointment of Mrs. Mary Louise O'Brien to teach an adult school course in world affairs.

A fashion show, to be followed by a food sale, is on the Oct. 19 calendar for the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club.

The event will be held at the Woman's Clubhouse, Cowper and Homer.

Mrs. Jack Merrill has been named chairman of the show.

Other chairmen include Mrs. F. P. Hunchar, models; Mrs. Guy Wathen, children models; Mrs. Richard Flint, music; Mrs. John Garotte, decorations; Miss Virgiani Marshall, programs; Mrs. Walter Farley, refreshments; Mrs. Harold Mohr, posters; Mrs. Burt C. Kendall, publicity; Mrs. Harold W. Starr, tables and serving.

Others are Mrs. Bruce Stephenson, restoration; Mrs. Claude Anderson, food sale, and Mrs. Don Conway, tickets. She may contacted at DAvenport 3-4366 for reservations.

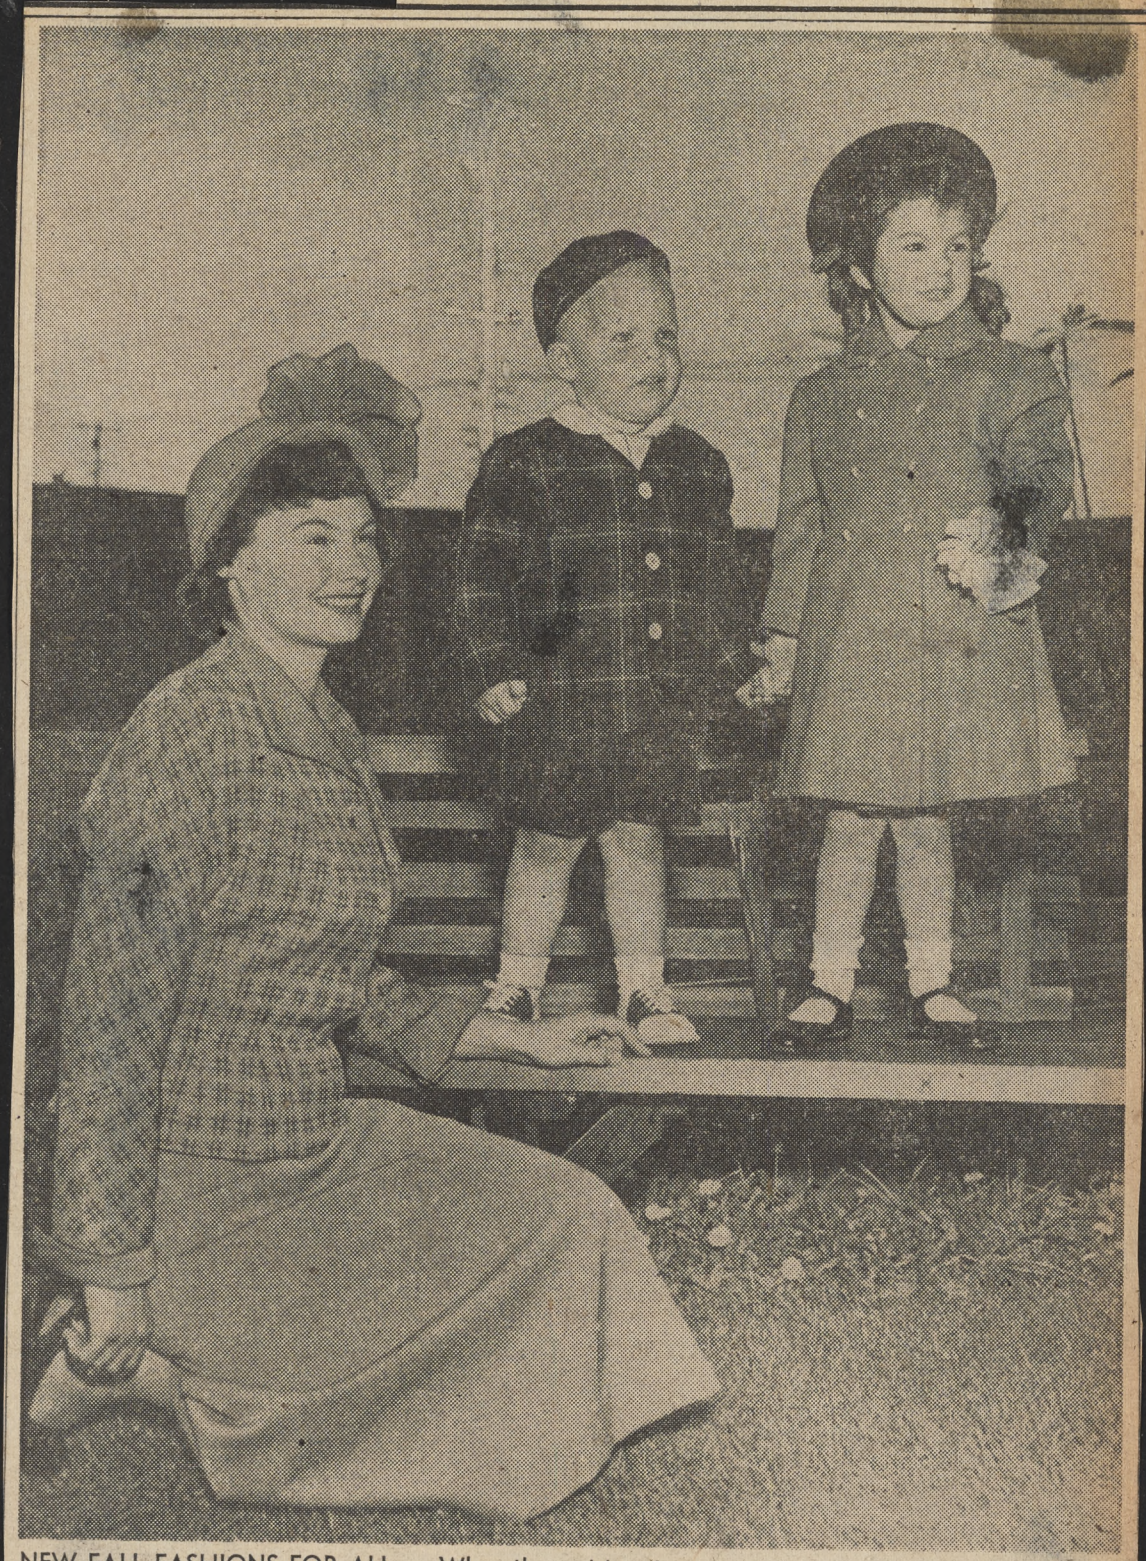
The junior women who will model will be Mrs. David Massey, Mrs. Guye Troute, Mrs. Herbert Nurmix, Mrs. Harvey Bailey, Mrs. William Potter, and Mrs. Bonnie Dove.

Other models are Mrs. John Glanville, Mrs. R. C. Beyer, Mrs. Don Bolander, and Mrs. John Stroud.

The senior Women's Club models will be Mrs. Jess Sammon, Mrs. Leslie H. Lutz, Mrs. J. Harold McFall, and Mrs. John F. Duckworth.

Members of the younger set who will model will be Jane Alvord, Linda Robertson, Judy Hyde, Laurie Egeberg, Linda Garcia, Ann Martin, Kathleen Glanville, Candy Hallett, Susan Reed, Pamela Delaney, Lon Beyer, Lance Kendall, David Bailey, Bobby Crowley, and Billy Miller.

Dessert will be served before the show and various home made foods will be on sale after the show.



NEW FALL FASHIONS FOR ALL — When the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club holds its fashion show and dessert party Friday at the Woman's Club of Palo Alto, three of the models will include Mrs. Jack Merrill, and two youngsters, Lon Beyer, 3-year-old son of the Richard Beyers, and Laurie Egeberg, the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Egeberg. Preceding the show, dessert will be served at 1:30 p.m. Following the show a food sale will be held. Mrs. John Garoutte is decoration chairman and Mrs. Richard Flint is music chairman for the show. The Palo Alto German Band will furnish music during the dessert hour.

Junior Woman's Club sees styles for old and young

(By CORNELIA)

Autumn attire for madam and small fry were shown at the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club fashion show yesterday.

Fifteen members of the "patched knee" and "pigtail" set showed fashions most suitable to their personalities.

Little Ann Martin made her bow in a lavender plaid pinafore, which was worn over a plain lavender dress. She shyly walked through the crowd of some 200 women, who witnessed the show at the woman's clubhouse, as Jane Alvord made her appearance wearing a deep green cotton.

Sophisticated Pamela Delaney modeled the plaid slacks she wears on cold winter afternoons.

Lance Kendall in his matching three-piece gray flannel ensemble, short trousers, jacket, and cap, was among the "masculine models.

Others in his category were David Bailey, Lon Beyer, Bobby Crowley, and Billy Miller.

A blue corduroy dress was worn by Linda Robertson, who hugged a doll under her arm.

Judy Hyde selected a taffeta party dress and Kathleen Glanville modeled a purple outfit.

A rain ensemble, complete with opened umbrella, was worn by Laurie Egeberg, who walked hand-in-hand with Billy Miller.

Among the senior models were 14 members of the junior club and four members of the Woman's Club.

Mrs. John F. Duckworth wore the ever popular full coat, gray in color, with tuxedo lines and symbolic emblems on each sleeve.

A white French poodle almost "stole the show" as his mistress, Mrs. Herbert Nurmi brought him before the public.

His elegant coat was spotless and he behaved at his mistress's command.

Mrs. Nurmi selected an autumn green ensemble.

A tailored cashmere coat was Mrs. Don Bolander's choice in contrast to the sunset plaid short topper Mrs. Leslie H. Lutz modeled.

Deep, deep purple is among the most popular fall colors.

Mrs. John F. Duckworth fashioned a purple corduroy coat and Mrs. Jess Sammon an entire ensemble in the same color.

Mrs. Harvey Bailey's two-toned wool jersey stole brought the audience to attention. The stole, red and navy, with long fringes, was worn over a navy ensemble, trimmed in the crimson.

Because there are warm early autumn days two models, Mrs. Bolander and Mrs. John Stroud, modeled black denim, with white daisy accents upon the full skirts and bodices.

Mrs. Bolander's was worn over a full, crenoline, polka dot petticoat.

Women's club to give party at Menlo Park service center

The Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will sponsor a party at the Servicemen's Center in Menlo Park tomorrow.

Members of the club will staff the Center, 570 Santa Cruz Ave., from 12 noon until midnight.

An orchestra will provide music for dancing and the junior hostesses from the Center will assist in hostessing.

Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Bernard Lanka, who is veteran's chairman for the Junior Women's Club, is taking charge of arrangements.

She will be assisted by Mrs. Edward Hyde, president, Mrs. F. P. Hunchar, Mrs. Harold Starr, and Mrs. Don Conway, who is decorations chairman.

Other committee members include Mrs. Herbert Nurmi, Mrs. John Stroud, and Mrs. James McIver.

Funds for tomorrow night's party were raised by a dinner-dance the Junior Women gave last March.

From this fund-raising project enough money was also made to purchase a linoleum covering for the Center's kitchen floor.

DAILY PALO ALTO TIMES,

P.A. Junior Women name commentator for fashion show

Mrs. Charles M. Baldwin of Palo Alto will be the commentator for the Oct. 19 fashion show the Junior Women's Club of Palo Alto will sponsor.

Mrs. Baldwin, the former Alleen Camory, is a former Stanford student. She is a Palo Alto resident and the mother of three young children.

A few years ago she managed a charm school and did professional modeling.

She is interested in commentating as a hobby and also hopes to help local clubs and societies in arranging fashion shows.

The Junior Women's Show will be held in the woman's clubhouse and will be followed by a food sale.

Wrecked autos to be displayed in Peninsula cities tomorrow

9/1951

Battered and wrecked automobiles that were once the pride of Peninsula families and are now only grim reminders of traffic tragedies will be displayed tomorrow in cities bordering Bloody Bayshore.

Nine mid-Peninsula communities will join in winding up the Bayshore Freeway Petition campaign with BB Day (Bloody Bayshore Day).

In Palo Alto, three wrecks will be set up at downtown locations where members of the Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will be on hand to collect additional signatures to the petition, addressed to Gov. Earl Warren. It requests early completion of the Bayshore Freeway and the assignment of additional patrolmen to the highway.

The local campaign is sponsored by the Palo Alto Chamber of Commerce and the Times. Joe Wood of Crestwood Pontiac has volunteered to supply the wrecks and tow them to the following locations: 263 University Ave., 392 California Ave., and 245 Lytton Ave.

In addition, there will be a display of emergency first aid dressings, typical of those advised at the scene of an auto accident, in the window of Bryant's, 263 University Ave. The display is being prepared by the Red Cross first aid committee directed by Mrs. William Lucas.

Menlo Park's new chamber of commerce will join the campaign by sponsoring a wreck on display between the municipal free parking plaza and Santa Cruz Ave.

"Stop the Massacre!" is the theme adopted in Menlo Park where the drive is sponsored by the chamber and the Menlo Park Recorder.

Wrecks will also be displayed in downtown locations in Sunnyvale, Mountain View, Los Altos, and San Carlos, through joint sponsorship of chambers of commerce and local newspapers.

Peninsula officials hope to have a total of 25,000 signatures on the peition when they take it in person to Gov. Earl Warren.

Thousands of names have already been added to the petition here. Among the latest to sign are members of 149th AAA Bn., California National Guard, which is stationed on the Peninsula.

Another 200 signatures have been turned in from Ames Laboratory, while 340 came from Mrs. F. C. Moren), who circulated the petition in her grocery store. Another grocer, Norris (Bud) Nelson has filled several petition forms with customers' signatures. Art Gaylord, food salesman, supplied Nelson and other grocers with petition blanks.

Forty-three members of Little House, Menlo Park's recreation center for persons over 50, have signed the peition.

Many other petition forms are being circulated in neighborhoods and business firms. Those in charge of these volunteer efforts are asked to return the forms to the Times or chamber of commerce by Saturday.

The junior women's club, which was the first local organization to turn in signatures of members on the Bayshore Freeway petitions, will supply volunteers tomorrow at the downtown spots where wrecks will be on display.

OFF FOR SACRAMENTO — Lined up in front of the big Pan American luxury stratocruiser, members of a Peninsula delegation are shown as they flew to a conference with Gov. Earl Warren yesterday afternoon. Mayors and representatives of 10 mid-Peninsula communities (front) carried petitions to the governor asking that the Bayshore Highway be made a full freeway for its full distance. Work remains to be done between Burlingame and San Jose, for a distance of 32 miles. Governor Warren also was asked to call a special session of the legislature, to run concurrently with the budget session next March, to consider a highway revenue bill. The state does not have sufficient money under present law to catch up with its heavy highway deficiencies, now totaling $3 billion.

Paly-Hi Boosters select officers, prepare for fund-raising project

Officers and committees of the newly formed Paly-Hi Boosters Club have been selected, President Glenn Kenyon announced today.

The first project of the organization is to raise funds for the purchase of new uniforms for the Palo Alto High School band. Since the uniforms cost $57.50 apiece, the total goal is $3200. The wool whipcord uniforms have a life expectancy of about 15 years.

The club is sponsoring a benefit football game between Paly High and Burlingame Oct. 26 which is expected to raise the boosters' one-third share of the $3200.

Tickets are being sold throughout the community. Proceeds from the ticket sales, over and above the amount set aside for the school's athletic fund, and half the profits from the game concessions will be devoted to the project.

The student body of the school will attempt to raise another third, and the balance is in sight from still another source, said Kenyon. The local board of education has approved this first project of the new club.

Kenyon said the uniform project is just the beginning, that a drive for funds to obtain lights for the high school football field is in prospect. Lights and new bleachers would permit a far greater adult attendance at high school games.

In addition to sponsoring such projects, Kenyon declared, the boosters are dedicated toward cementing a better relationship between students and the community and will lend their support to all activities of the school—not just athletic events.

The organization is to be made up of adults of the community, whether or not they have children in school, he said, and membership is open to all. Charter memberships will remain available until Saturday, Oct. 20.

These memberships may be obtained by calling Robert Marshall at DA 2-9457, Ed Crady at DA 3-5050, or Bab Ziegler at DA 3-1057. At the present time there is no membership fee.

Before the Paly-Burlingame contest, Kenyon said, a parade will be held in downtown Palo Alto and through part of the city's residential section. The band, football players, and students will take part. Time will be announced later.

Tickets to the benefit game will be sold in booths set up in various downtown stores and by bandsmen, Parent-Teachers Association members, and the general student body. Additional bleachers will be set up to insure seats for all ticket buyers.

In addition to Kenyon, the officers are Ed Crady, vice president; Mrs. John Patterson, secretary; Robert Marshall, treasurer; Robert Ziegler, executive committee member; and three executive committee members from the high school student body—Bill Farr, Diana Brinker, and George Baer.

Here are the committees and their members:

Publicity committee — Zeigler (chairman), Marshall Virello, Jay Rhodes; Sam Holman (student chairman), Barbara Davenport, Pat Ramsden, Elizabeth Svihra.

Parade committee — William Radford (chairman), Don Hampton, Herb Nelson, George Carey; Sharlene Willhide (student chairman), and members of the student council.

Ticket committee — Marshall (chairman), Mrs. William Mudgett, Mrs. William Smith, Charles Tyler; Bob Ziegler (student chairman).

DAILY PALO ALTO TIMES, MONDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1951

Downtown booths set by Paly High Boosters

Plans for downtown ticket booths and a parade were announced today by the Paly High Boosters as enthusiasm mounted for the Band Day benefit game between Palo Alto and Burlingame high schools Friday on Hod Ray Field here.

The Boosters Club is sponsoring the ticket sale for the primary purpose of raising funds to purchase new uniforms for the Paly High band.

During this week ticket booths will be set up in various downtown stores and staffed by members of the Junior Women's Club of Palo Alto, under the direction of Mrs. William Smith.

All merchants and service clubs are being contacted by members of the ticket committee, and members of the high school band are canvassing residential districts.

On Thursday a parade down University Ave., highlighting the band and members of Coach Hod Ray's Viking football team, will climax the drive.

Glenn Kenyon, president of the Boosters, said the club is not only seeking to sell enough tickets to defray the cost of the band uniforms, but also is attempting to get as many people as possible out to the game in order to demonstrate definitely to the Paly students that their city is squarely behind them.

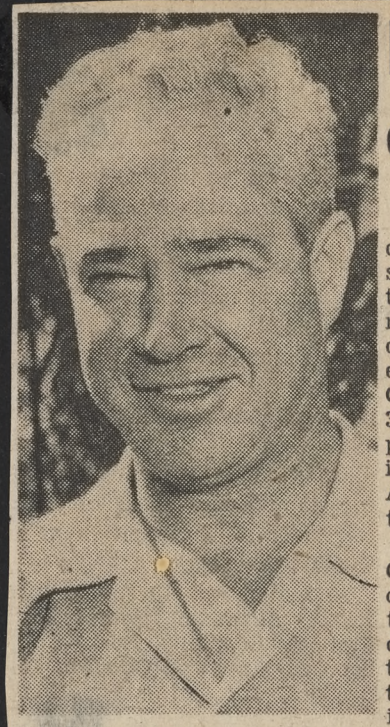
Extra bleachers will be set up at the field, and every ticket holder is guaranteed a seat.

Kenyon urged all townspeople to join the Boosters Club, the main purpose of which is to bring about a better relationship between city and school and to lend support to all school activities. There is no charge for membership.

He said that with the support of the entire community the Boosters hope to undertake many more worthwhile projects at the high school, one of which is provision of new bleachers and lights for night games at the football field.

DAILY PALO ALTO TIMES, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1951

P.A. Youth Council is a Red Feather agency



YOUTH LEADER — Ed Crady is president of the Palo Alto Youth Co-ordinating Council, a Community Chest agency.

By MIMI DOE

The Youth Coordinating Council is probably the least understood of the eight agencies of the Palo-Alto Stanford Community Chest. The council was organized in 1941 through the efforts of the Palo Alto Rotary Club. It consists of a group of 30 representatives of civic and private organizations interested in the overall pacture of Palo Alto and in youth activities as they fit into this picture.

It exists, according to Ed Crady, the council president, because when a community grows to the size of this city it becomes necessary to interrelate the work of groups dealing with the same subject; to coordinate in order to prevent duplication of services and to get action started to fill gaps as they appear.

The council's recommendations and findings were responsible for the establishment of Family Service Association in Palo Alto in 1950. This year the council has sponsored a survey of all the recreational facilities in the area because it felt that new districts were not adequately served.

Among the groups represented at the Youth Coordinating Council's monthly meetings are Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, Optimists, 20-30 Club, the PTA, YMCA, YWCA, churches and schools, such city departments as health, fire, police, and recreation, and the city council. The city manager frequently attends.

Ordinarily the council does not finance or perform the work required to fill gaps in the community. An exception is the summer Youth Employment Service which has no other sponsor at present. This service was established in 1944. Its record this summer illustrates its work.

The employment service reports filling 585 jobs from June 25 to Sept. 8. The estimated amount earned by the boys and girls employed was $5553.45. This does not include future jobs resulting from the original ones.

The average wage was 75 cents per hour and the average age was 15 to 16 years. Mrs. Olive McLeod gave her services as director without pay and the Boy Scout Fire Circle was the "office."

Crady represents the kind of person working in this program. He is a Palo Alto businessman and has lived here 28 years. At one time city tennis champion, he played on local softball teams for 15 years, ran the commercial basketball league, and played for eight or nine years. In 1943 he joined the United States Marine Corps, served as drill instructor at the recruit camp at San Diago and went overseas with the third marine division.

He is a past member of the 20-30 Club, a member of 40 and 8, the Palo Alto Elks Club, PALO club, Marine Corps Club, is a director of the YMCA and Palo Alto-Stanford Community Chest, and is chairman of the chamber of commerce's recreation committee.

When Crady states that the Youth Coordinating Council is vitally concerned with the necessity of setting up standards of youth and with determining the extent of responsibility of parents in the behavior of youth, he speaks earnestly.

"The Youth Coordinating Council is inviting a group of representative citizens of Palo Alto to explore the possibilities of developing an all day workshop on citizenship responsibilities. We also invite parents and law enforcement agencies to cooperate in an investigation of the souces from which the young get their stimulants," he said.

At a recent meeting of adults and teen-agers from Palo Alto High School, a discussion was held on the subject of setting up standards of behavior for both youth and parents. It was advocated that the teen-agers should have a responsible part in enforcement of these standards for youth itself.

"The kids feel strongly that they can help control the small element that causes the trouble which has made an unfavorable impression on the community," Crady stated. "They know who the offenders are, do not consider them impressive, and feel equal to handling them through the proper channels."

The Youth Coordinating Council has no paid executives. Its funds derived from the Community Chest drive are used to defray the expenses incidental to putting on its annual workshop, and to maintain the Youth Employment Service, which is chiefly telephone service expenses.

The officers of the board of directors of the Youth Coordinating Council are Ed Crady, president; Mrs. Arnold Brown, vice president; Maj. Gen. Thomas G. Hearn, treasurer; Mrs. Robert K. Jacques, secretary.

MEETING THE PRESIDENT — Student officials from Palo Alto High School and Jordan Junior High School attended a school board meeting last night to get better acquainted with the board members. Here four of the youngsters have a talk with Merrill Vanderpool, president of the board. From left to right they are Gary Williams, commissioner of boys' activities at the senior high school; Barbara Dunbar, commissioner of girls' activities at Paly High; Vanderpool; Marcia Stedman, student body vice president, and Joe McCarthy, assistant student manager, both of Jordan.

OLDSTERS GET 'AN EARFUL'

Board goes to 'school' to learn pupils' views

Student body officers of the junior and senior high schools met with the board of education of the Palo Alto Unified School District last night, and the board members learned a lot.

The youngsters, especially those from Palo Alto High School, had some pretty definite ideas on such matters as school spirit, juvenile delinquency, sports and social activities, and they didn't hesitate to say what they thought.

Bill Farr, commissioner of public welfare at the senior high school, introduced his fellow commissioners and served as master of ceremonies while the other student officers listed their duties and stated their aims.

Leon West, the Jordan High School student body president, did the same thing for his group.

Farr and Gary Williams, commissioner of boys' activities at Paly High, showed great concern for the problems posed by youngsters who indulge in "greatly publicized" activities—gang brawls, for instance.

All the commissioners felt that those involved formed only a small minority of the student body at Paly High, and that the remainder can improve matters in their own way if given cooperation by the adults of the community.

Williams disclosed that an investigation he made indicates that the majority of delinquents are between the ages of 14 and 16, and that seniors at the high school can do much to control them.

In a recent police case a gang of juveniles was quoted as making plans to "tear the town apart" on Halloween; as a counter measure, Paly High student officers are arranging a "spook show" at the high school for Halloween, to keep as many teen-agers as possible off the streets.

All the commissioners felt that night football would improve rather than deteriorate the students' relationship with the community.

But most of all, they indicated, they want to work out their own problems. They feel that if they work hard for something, they'll appreciate it much more than if it were handed to them on a platter.

In addition to Farr and Williams, the Paly High commissioners were Dorothy Dunham, girls' sports; Barbara Dunbar, girls' activities; Caroll Zschokke, social activities; Tony Hodge, publications; Bob Ziegler, boys' sports; Dick DeVoto, finance; and Mary Dunham, secretary.

Leon West introduced Marcia Stedman, Jordan vice president; Don Bishop, student manager; Joe McCarthy, assistant student manager; and Pat Gray, clerk.

Joe McCarthy reported that 97 per cent of the students engage in one or more extra-curricular activities.

Dan Stone, Jordan vice principal, introduced his students to the five board members. The Paly High contingent was accompanied by Principal Ivan H. Linder, Counselor Tully Knoles Jr., and Dean of Girls Mrs. Margaret Webb.

Paly High Boosters group formed to cement school-city relations

The Paly High Boosters organized themselves last night and straightway plunged into a campaign to raise funds for new uniforms for the high school band.

Band Day was set for Friday, Oct. 26, the date of the Palo Alto-Burlingame game at the high school's Hod Ray Field, and plans were laid for a drive to sell tickets which will include contributions to the band fund.

Purpose of the organization is to improve relations between high school students and the people of Palo Alto—not just parents—but all adults. The Boosteres resolved to take part in and support all student activities.

Glenn Kenyon was named chairman of the Boosters, Mrs. John Patterson secretary, and Robert Marshall treasurer. Members of a committee named by the high school's three classes to work with the Boosters are Commissioner of Public Welfare Bill Farr (student body president), a senior; George Baer, a junior, and Dianne Brinker, a sophomore.

Aim of the initial drive is to have the band outfitted in new uniforms by next football season. Present uniforms, made during World War II, are wearing out fast. The uniforms cost about $57.50 each, and the goal of the drive is $3200.

A substantial amount of the ticket price for the Paly-Burlingame game will be contributed to the band fund, the Boosters decided. There will be reserved sections for those who buy the special tickets.

High school students will sell them to the general public, and tickets will be made available at service club meetings. The Palo Alto Junior Women's Club will maintain downtown booths for sales.

Boosters also will sponsor concessions at the game, with profits going to the band fund.

If any surplus results from the drive, it will be used as a start for the Boosters' long-range project, construction of bigger and better bleachers and installation of lights at the high school football field.

This problem was discussed at length, with Principal Ivan H. Linder and Coach Hod Ray expressing favor of the long-range plan.

It was pointed out that there would be a great deal more interest in Paly football if games were played Friday nights. Many adults cannot arrange to attend the present Friday afternoon games.

Organization of the Boosters at the first meeting last night at Kenyon's home was left informal. Kenyon announced that cooperation and participation of all interested individuals and organizations will be welcome. He may be reached by phone at DA 3-6270 or DA 3-5181.

Those attending last night's meeting were Bill Hardin, Palo Alto 20-30 Club; Mrs. William L. Smith, Junior Women's Club; Lorenz Costello and John D. Morris, Elks Club 1471; Ed Crady, Youth Coordinating Council; Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon, chamber of commerce and Kiwanis Club.

Bob Blois, Rotary Club; Herbert W. Nelson, fire marshal; Ethel Emerson and Margaret Windsor, Business and Professional Women's Club; Bob Ziegler and Bill Farr, high school student commissioner; Principal Linder and Coach Ray.

Officer William M. Robinson, police department; Joseph Jury, PALO Club; Dr. Andrew Stevens, Jordan Junior High School principal; Herb Towle, Exchange Club; Charles Tyler, Times; and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ziegler and Mr. and Mrs. John Patterson, high school parent-teacher association.

Youth talent show to open here tomorrow

Young people of the community will display their hobbies for public view at the annual talent show which opens tomorrow at 9 a.m. in the girls' gymnasium at Palo Alto High School. The exhibit, which will be open to the public without charge, will be set up in four sections—one for 12-year-olds, one for 13- and 14-year-olds, one for 15- and 16-year-olds, and a fourth for 17- and 18-year-old students.

Exhibit hours will be 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. tomorrow, Saturday, and Sunday. Visitors will be asked to vote for the most outstanding exhibits in each section, and the winners will be awarded gold trophies Sunday afternoon.

Ribbons will also be given outstanding exhibitors in each division. Funds for the show were raised by auctions conducted at the high school and by a father-son basketball game.

David Wood and Tom Husband of the Palo Alto 20-30 Club are chairmen of the show. Club members and members of a student committee set up the exhibit last night. Students on the committee are Sharlene Willhide, chairman, John Valhos, John Williams, and Kay Bralg.

TALENT TROPHIES — Palo Altans who visit the annual youth talent show which opens tomorrow at 9 a.m. in the girls' gymnasium at the high school will vote for the winners of these trophies and ribbons which are being arranged by David Wood (left) and Tom Husband of the Palo Alto 20-30 Club, show co-chairmen. The show will continue Saturday and Sunday and will be open each day from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. There will be no admission charge.

Women's Realm

Junior Women's Clubs to aid foreign students

Somewhere, someday soon, a group of foreign students will discover that they may matriculate at a university and purchase the necessary books while waiting money from their homelands.

Those foreign students may not know it, but the help they will receive will be due to the efforts of earnest young women in Palo Alto, Los Altos, Menlo Park and Atherton with pockets full of tickets.

These young women are members of the Palo Alto, Los Altos and Menlo-Atherton Junior Women's Clubs who are selling tickets to the fourthcoming annual San Francisco Home Hi Fi Show which will be held at the Cow Palace in San Francisco, March 7 and 11.

The producers of the Home & Hi Fi Show are donating 50 per cent of the gross sale of the tickets towards a Foreign Students Loan Fund which is being established by the Pacifica District's Junior Women's Clubs, California Federation of Women's Clubs.

The new project is being conducted under the direction of the respective presidents of the clubs: Mrs. Russell Bryan, 3500 Lewis Road, Palo Alto Juniors; Mrs. James Nawrocki, 1449 Ranchita Drive, Los Altos Juniors; and Mrs. Clem Bauman, 451 Middle Court, Menlo Park, Menlo-Atherton Juniors.

According to Mrs. Bryan, the purpose of the Foreign Student Loan Fund is to provide money to foreign students to pay their college tuition and purchase books, with repayment of the loan when the students receive money from home.

SHOW FEATURES

She said that many foreign students are not able to receive money from their homelands until after they have matriculated at an American university.

The annual San Francisco Home & Hi Fi Show will feature countless displays of furniture, trends in home decor and more than $3 million in FM-Stereo and other high fidelity equipment.
